

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

2 MARTIN V.

Kal. Dec.
Mantua.
(f. 224d.)

To the archbishop of Canterbury. Mandate as below. John, bishop of Lichfield, has set forth to the pope that although Robert, bishop of Killaloe (Laonien.) is sound of mind and body, and is a bachelor of theology, and understands sufficiently and can speak the language of those parts as well as English, a certain public instrument has been exhibited in the Roman court in which the said bishop Robert is represented as asserting that on account of his bodily weakness and his ignorance of Scripture and the said languages he has appointed procurators, named in the instrument, for the purpose of resigning. Further, to the said see, as void by the resignation in the Roman court of bishop Robert, made by one of the said procurators, the pope has recently translated Eugenius from Kilmacduagh. At the petition therefore of bishop John, who asserts that bishop Robert is his vicar in pontificals in the city and diocese of Lichfield, and knows nothing about such instrument and the said translation, and had and has no intention to resign, the pope orders the archbishop to inform himself as to the falsity of the said instrument, which the pope sends to him with the letters of translation, and if he find it false, to annul it, punish the forger, and declare that Robert is to remain in his said church. If he find the instrument genuine, he is to declare that the said translation is to take effect, and is to assign to the above Eugenius the pope's said letters. Exposuit nobis. [In margin: De cancellaria.]

Refusing the pope's assent and authority to certain articles agreed to by the archbishop of the one part and the mayor, sub-mayor and jurats of the other part, concerning the jurisdiction and liberty of the church of Bordeaux, immediately subject to the pope and the Roman church, which articles the pope considers insufficient. Against encroachment on the said jurisdiction and liberty he wrote last year to the sub-mayor and jurats, and also wrote to king Henry requesting him to aid in expediting the matter. If without delay the said church and its diocese be restored to their former liberty and jurisdiction, the pope gives his consent to the said articles: if not, he decrees them null and void, and will proceed against those who encroach on the said jurisdiction. Dudum iura ecclesie.

12 Kal. Feb.
St. Peter's, Rome.
(f. 92d.)

To Master Simon de Theramo, doctor of canon and civil law, papal nuncio and collector for the papal camera in England. Mandate as below. The pope has recently learned that some debtors of the camera in the parts where he is collector assert that in the General Council of Pisa Alexander V remitted sums due to the camera. In order that the collector and any other may see what was remitted, and what not, the pope, at the petition of Master John de Scribanis, procurator of the pope's treasury (fisci) and of the said camera, has caused to be inserted in these presents a copy, taken from the register of the letters of Alexander V, of that pope's motu proprio letters, Licet ad universalis, addressed to Francis, archbishop of Narbonne, papal chamberlain, and dated at Pisa, 7 Id. Aug. anno 1 [1409], whereby, mainly for the relief of the expenses caused by attendance at the said Council, he remitted all debts or arrears, incurred up to the day of his accession, in respect of common services, annates or first fruits, tenths, procurations or visitations, fruits medii temporis and spolia, and belonging, under any constitutions, customs, impositions or reservations of his predecessors or any others, to the said pope's person only; absolving the debtors from excommunication etc. incurred by delay in payment, and dispensing them on account of any irregularity contracted. To such payments of the said debts and arrears as had already been made up to the publication of the above letters the remission was not to apply, and the above chamberlain was ordered to cause the pope's remission, absolution and dispensation to be observed. The present pope hereby decrees that the present exemplification shall have the force of the original, and orders the above collector to exact from all liable, giving a receipt, 1422.

Peter's pence and all other rights of the camera which he shall judge not to be comprised under the above remission, proceeding by ecclesiastical censure etc., as is customary in the case of debts of the camera, and invoking, if necessary, the aid of the secular arm. Prouisionis nostre. papal privilege about not paying procurations or other subsidies to papal nuncios and legates) that (seeing that the stipends of nuncios and collectors were divided among the churches, priories and other benefices of the realm proportionately, and that if some benefices were exempted, the share of others would have to be increased, or the deficiency made up from the unusually exhausted revenues of the camera, that such unions are always deemed to carry with them their burdens, and that the apostolic see willed such newly founded houses to be exempt from procurations of nuncios and legates, but not of nuncio-collectors, to whom the said procurations were assigned as fixed yearly stipends) the said privilege ought not to have extended and does not extend to nuncios and collectors and the said procurations; with mandate to levy and exact from such newly founded houses the said procurations on account of the said priories and benefices united to them, proceeding by ecclesiastical censure etc., and invoking, if necessary, the aid of the secular arm. Pastoralis officii. To the archbishops of Canterbury and York and the bishop of Alet (Electen.). Mandate as below. The recent petition of Master John de Scribanis, procurator-fiscal of the court of the papal camera (procurator fiscalis curie camere apostolice) contained that formerly the pope, upon learning that William Russell, friar of the Friars Minors' house at London, preached in a sermon at London that personal tithes ought not by divine law to be paid, but that everyone might at pleasure convert them to other pious uses, commissioned Branda, cardinal priest of St. Clement's, to arrest and imprison the said William, who was then in the Roman court, and make further inquiry against him; that after this had been done, William, with a number of others, escaped from prison by night; that the pope then commissioned to proceed judicially the said cardinal, who, at the instance of the said John, whom he had appointed instigator of the cause, issued the usual citations, and upon the said William's repeated contumacy, pronounced a definitive sentence, condemning the sermon and condemning William himself, as suspect of heresy, to retract and, after voluntary retractation, to be imprisoned in the prison of the bishop of London, by way of penance, during the pleasure of the apostolic see, or, if unwilling to retract, to be imprisoned perpetually. The said petition adding that John fears that William will not obey the said sentence, the pope orders the above prelates to publish and execute it and to compel William to retract, proceeding by ecclesiastical censure, without appeal, and invoking, if necessary, the aid of the secular arm. Exhibita nobis. [2 pp. Wilkins, Concilia III, p. 454.]

SS. Apostoli, Rome.

To John, bishop of Glasgow, chancellor of the realm of Scotland. Pardon etc. as below. The pope lately (on learning that before his promotion to the see of Glasgow, made by the present pope, John had more than once incurred disability and perpetrated such crimes as to have forfeited all right to the said promotion; and that after he became bishop he was the author and cause of the putting forth in parliament of certain statutes about collations of benefices, even of reserved benefices, and otherwise oppressive to the clergy, and against ecclesiastical liberty and the rights of the Roman church, that he collated and caused to be collated benefices simoniacally, and was guilty of other crimes) gave a riva voce commission to Jordan, cardinal bishop of Albano, and Peter, cardinal priest of St. Stephen's on the Coelian, to inform themselves, and if they found him guilty of anything which had rendered him unfit to acquire any right to the said see, or which had afterwards rendered him unworthy of holding it, to proceed against him even to the length of deprivation, and to cite him to see in person his deprivation. The said cardinals found him so guilty in many respects of the above as to deserve deprivation, and caused him to be cited before them in the Roman court in person to see and hear his deprivation, or to show cause to the contrary, of which two cardinals the pope replaced Peter, on his absence from the Roman court, by Lewis, cardinal priest of St. Cecilia's. Afterwards king James by his orators, sent for the purpose, set forth to the pope that many of the charges were untrue, and that if John had done aught amiss he was ready to make amends. At the said king's petition, and on the promise by the said orators, made on John's behalf, that he will help to obtain the abolition of the above statutes, and behave laudably in future, the pope condones and remits all crimes and the other charges against him, of which he has not been able fully to clear himself, absolves him from excommunication and other sentences,

He who has received from the Roman church the primacy (there is a blank space instead of the word primatum) and legation of the apostolic see over the churches of England (Angli[canas]), a space being again left), and is the successor of the Blessed Thomas, sometime archbishop of Canterbury, who in withstanding like statutes offered himself as a martyr on behalf of ecclesiastical liberty, ought to be the first to go forward to battle and be an example to his fellow bishops. Yet he is [the first] of all to turn his back, and to restrain others who would go forward, either from pusillanimity, or from dissimulation or, as all testify, from manifest treachery (evidenti prevaricatione). He is therefore ordered, under pain of ipso facto excommunication, to go in person without delay to the place where the counsellors of king Henry meet together, and urge them, alike ecclesiastics and seculars, to abolish the said statute in the next parliament, pointing out inter alia that officials, judges etc. who cause such statutes against ecclesiastical liberty to be observed incur excommunication ipso jure. Furthermore, he is to act in the same way when parliament meets, towards the said counsellors, and also the commons and others who have voice therein. He is also to order all rectors, and others who preach, to instruct the people frequently on the subject, and is to inform the pope of his proceedings in the matter by his letters signed by at least two grave persons present at the demands which he is to make. Martinus . . . venerabili fratri Henrico episcopo Wyntoniensi salutem etc. Si quam in districto dei iudicio. [4½ pp. Duplicate on f. 165. Alex. vii. p. 81' (i.e. the 15th cent. cod. D. vii. 101 of the Chigi Library, Rome, f. 41r=p. 81). Sending to him, whom the pope lately created cardinal, as he has informed him by other letters, and in order that he may not remain longer without the mark of his dignity, the red hat by Salvatus de Genezano, member of the pope's household, papal esquire, the colour whereof is not to please the eye, but to remind him to be ready to shed his blood for the church. To the bishop [of Winchester, see the letter next following]. Thanking him for his continued devotion and affection towards the pope and the Roman church, which John de Obicis, the pope's collector and nuncio, has written, and which, although not new, is nevertheless very pleasing to the pope; and exhorting him to apply himself with his wonted vigilance to the carrying out of those things which, for the dignity and honour of the church, as well as of the realm, he knows to be specially desired by the pope, who will not be forgetful of his services. Venerabilis frater salutem etc. Scripsit nobis dilectus filius Datum etc. [Duplicate on f. 187d, also ending 'Datum etc.' This letter also occurs in the above Barberini MS., f. 14, beginning, as above, Venerabilis frater salutem etc. Scripsit . . ., ending, as above, Datum etc., but with the additional superscription 'Episcopo Vintonien.' The copy in the above Chigi MS., f. 6^r, is similar, and has in the margin 'Episcopo Vintonien.']

[To John de Obicis, papal collector in England.] The pope is very glad to hear what he writes about the affection and good works, in the affairs of the church and the pope, of H[enry], bishop of Winchester, although lately known to the pope. His efforts (quod operatur) on behalf of the pope's nephew [Prospero Colonna, in the matter of the archdeaconry of Canterbury] please the pope very greatly, not so much for the sake of his nephew, as for the sake of the honour of the pope and the church. [John] is to thank the bishop (fraternitati sue) on behalf of the pope for his services, and is always to seek his counsel and employ his aid in all business of the pope and the church. Dilecte fili salutem etc. Grata sunt admodum menti nostre Datum etc. [Duplicate on f. 188, also ending 'Datum etc.']

* See the letter next following.

† The above letter is later than March 23, 1425, the date of the appointment of John de Opicis as collector in England (above, Reg. CCCXLIX, f. 122d), and is probably earlier than July 26, 1426, the date of archbishop Chichele's admission of Prospero Colonna to the archdeaconry of Canterbury, provision of which the pope had made to him on June 10, 1424 (Le Neve, I, p. 42). It may be also dated earlier than May 24, 1426, when bishop Beaufort received the title of cardinal (Eubel), and the pope's reference to the bishop's efforts on behalf of Prospero point to his obtaining for him the royal licence of March 16 to hold benefices in England to a yearly value of 500 marks (Federa, O, x. 354), the news of which would have reached the pope by May 1, on which day he granted Prospero licence to exchange the archdeaconry (above, Reg. CCCLV, f. 268). The letter occurs on f. 14d of the Barberini MS. beginning, as above, Dilecte fili salutem, etc. Grata sunt . . ., ending, as above, 'Datum etc.', but with, in addition, the superscription 'Collectori Anglie.' This text omits the bishop's Christian name entirely. [To the bishop of Trieste, papal nuncio in England, and Simon de Teramo, papal nuncio and collector in England.] Those who come from England relate to the pope daily that Humphrey, duke of Gloucester, complains that the matrimonial cause is not brought to the desired conclusion, and blames the pope for it, a not unreasonable complaint if it were true that, as one of the above two [viz. the collector, cf. f. 21] has told the duke, and that in open council, the pope told the said person that he was aware that justice was on the duke's side. Would indeed that the duke's right were clear enough to enable the pope, according to his desire, to satisfy the duke's wish! The pope's desire has been and daily is that justice may be on the side of the duke. At any rate, the person who related that the pope made such a statement spoke falsely, and the pope has on another occasion written to this effect to the above two, complaining of the person who told such an impudent lie. The more he hears about it, the more he is distressed. The object was of course personal advantage by pleasing the duke, rather than the good faith of the speaker or the pope's honour, but the lie shall be of small profit to its author. One of the above two, when he was in Rome, related to the pope that he was in possession of the opinions of many persons under seal, all to the effect that justice was on the side of the duke, to which the pope replied that if this were so he was very glad. Whether, however, it be really so, as the said person related, let him ask the other side, which asserts the exact opposite. There is an old proverb which says that he who reckons without his host reckons twice, and the second time worse than the first. The pope has favoured the duke's cause as far as he has been able, and will continue to do so. As to the person who invented the lie, he will do well to say that it was his own invention and not the pope's words. Venerabilis frater et

To Henry, king of England. The pope hoped to hear from Nicholas Bildeston, D.C.L., the king's orator, favourable tidings in regard to the things which the pope requested by his own orators. But Nicholas has brought no treaty (tractatum) or conclusion thereof, and has set forth certain other matters far removed from the pope's thoughts. The pope was naturally surprised, for he had conceived such great hopes from the statement of his said orators that the king intended to send some persons to conclude this affair (pro rotina huius negotii conclusionem), that he never thought the king's orator would come to Rome without commission to treat or conclude the same. For the pope asked nothing which was not just and reasonable and to the king's credit. He therefore exhorts the king to consider that having been raised by God to high dignity, he should be the more humble and the more favourable to the pope and the apostolic see. The pope has commissioned the above Nicholas to set forth at length in regard to the king's wishes. *Carissimo . . . † The divorce suit, referred to in the present letter and in that to the two nuncios, above, f. 19, as being still sub iudice, was begun in the Roman court by Jacqueline of Bavaria in April, 1421, immediately after her flight to England, for the dissolution of her marriage to John, duke of Brabant (see Le Blant, Les Quatre Mariages de Jacqueline, Duchesse en Bavière, Paris, 1904, p. 213.)

for the delay in deciding the matrimonial cause which is going on in the [Roman] court, and that the reason of the duke's opinion is that one of the pope's nuncios reported to him that the pope told him that he was aware that the duke had right on his side, a report which has stirred the pope's wonder and indignation. On hearing the same from another source, the pope forthwith briefly replied to the duke, but the more he thinks of it the more he laments the temerity of the person who slandered him by making him express an opinion on a matter which is sub iudice. The sole object of course was to please the duke's ears in the hope of profiting the speaker. The duke must not believe that the pope used such words, which are a lying invention. The pope remembers that when the collector related to him that he was in possession of the opinions of many persons who upheld the nullity of the first marriage [between Jacqueline of Bavaria and John, duke of Brabant] and were in favour of the duke's case, he was greatly rejoiced, said he was glad to hear it, and wished it might be so. If, however, the collector affirms that the pope said what was then, as it is now, his wish, he is quite far from the truth. The pope has always shown the duke what favour he could in the cause. He commends for his fidelity to the duke the above John Fytton (sic here) and his affairs. *Dilecto filio Humfrido . . . salutem etc. Veniens ad nos ex parte excellencie tue . . . A preliminary sentence in the cause in possessorio was delivered on Feb. 27, 1426, ordering the sequestration of Jacqueline pending a definitive sentence. It is printed by Devillers, Cartulaire des Comtes de Hainaut (in the Collection des Chroniques belges inédites), IV (Brussels, 1889) p. 539, who points out the error of Dynter's Chronicon, ed. Ram. III, p. 463, in giving the date as Jan. 27, 1425. The date in Le Blant op. cit. pp. 216 sqq., 'd'après Dynter,' is Jan. 27, 1426. The definitive sentence itself, declaring Jacqueline's marriage to Brabant to have been valid, and her marriage to Gloucester null and void, was pronounced on Jan. 9, 1428 (Devillers, op. cit. p. 648, cf. Le Blant, op. cit. pp. 219-221). The limiting dates are therefore April, 1421, and Feb. 27, 1426, or at latest Jan. 9, 1428. The anterior limit may be brought down to March 13, 1423, the date of the pope's request for a safe-conduct for James, bishop of Trieste, for his mission to England (Reg. CCCLIV, f. 183d); and the posterior limit may be advanced to Jan. 23, 1425, the date of the letters of credence of John de Opizis, the successor of James de Teramo as collector (Reg. CCCLIX, f. 43d sqq.), the formal appointment of Opizis, carrying with it the recall of Teramo, being dated on the following March 23 (Reg. CCCL, f. 122d). The limiting dates thus become March 13, 1423 - Jan. 23, 1425.

The pope's assurance that the collector Teramo shall be no gainer by the conduct of which Gloucester complains, suggests an approximation to the later date, that of the collector's dismissal, which naturally connects itself with the duke's letter, dated at Calais, Oct. 27, 1424 (Williams, Bekynton Correspondence, Rolls Series, I, p. 279) threatening to arrest and imprison, pending the pope's instructions, the collector Teramo for his betrayal of the duke in the matter of the divorce suit, and his slanderous suggestion to the pope that if he would refuse (reading nolletis instead of velletis, to give sentence in possessorio against the duke he should enjoy the fullest liberty in disposing of benefices in England. The pope took the course of dismissing the collector, who had made himself generally unpopular (cf. ibid., II, p. 363), the pope's letter of Dec. 13 (ibid., I, p. 284), in reply to another protest of Gloucester against his detractors, being followed soon after the end of the year by the appointment of a new collector.

(f. 35.)

To the archbishop of Besançon. The pope has learned long ago (pridem) that the archbishop presumed to confirm by his ordinary authority a certain abbot elect of the monastery of St. Peter, Luxeuil (de Luxau[io]), O.S.B., in the diocese of Besançon, even after the pope had motu proprio annulled the election and had made provision of the monastery. The archbishop had no right to interfere, for the disposal of the monastery belongs, in any case, to the pope alone, seeing that it is immediately subject to the Roman church, and therefore has no need of the archbishop's confirmation nor of the contrary. The archbishop will therefore make amends by assisting John, lately (dudum) prior of la Charité[-sur-Loire] (de Caritate), now abbot of the said monastery, to overcome all obstacles and obtain peaceable possession in accordance with the pope's provision. Venerabili fratri salutem etc. Intelleximus pridem Datum etc. [On f. 219d is an unfinished duplicate. The copies in Barberini f. 57 and Chigi, f. 19d end with the word 'Datum.']

To John, duke of Bedford (Bedefordie.). Exhorting him to assist in obtaining possession of the monastery of St. Peter, Luxeuil (de Luxouio), John, formerly prior of la Charité (de Caritate), to whom the pope lately (dudum) made provision, annulling the election made thereto of another. Dilecto filio salutem etc. Cum multa sint que Datum etc. [There is no duplicate of this nor of the following letters in the second half of the Register. The copies in Barberini, f. 57d and Chigi, f. 20^r end 'Datum etc. xiiii Aprilis,' without the year.]

* The archbishop to whom this letter is addressed is Theobald de Rougemont, who was translated to the see of Besançon on Feb. 20, 1405, and died on Sept. 16, 1429, rather than John de la Rochetaillée, cardinal priest of S. Lorenzo in Lucina, who was appointed administrator of the see on the following Oct. 14, dying in 1437 (see Eubel. Hierarchia.). Sept. 16, 1429, is therefore the posterior limit. A manuscript Histoire de Luxeuil, written in 1770 by a Benedictine of Besançon, Dom Grappin, and preserved in the Bibliothèque de Besançon, relates on pp. 237 and 238 that Etienne III Pierrexi, abbot of Luxeuil, died on Aug. 3, 1424, which is therefore the anterior limit. Grappin adds that a relative of Etienne, Guy Pierrexi, a monk of Luxeuil, had himself elected, but that on his petition to Martin V for confirmation, the pope annulled the election on the ground of simony, nominating instead Jean d'Ungelles, sometime prior of la Charité-sur-Loire. In the following year Guy obtained from the Parlement de Paris an order for the arrest of the pope's nominee, and the contest lasted another four years, the pope finally, on Dec. 24, 1429, issuing a sentence of excommunication against Guy and his adherents by name. According to Dom Grappin the pope took no action between 1425 and 1429, so that his present appeals for the enforcement of his provision to abbot John (who died in 1431) belong to his earlier or to his later proceedings. Cf. Gallia Christiana, xii, col. 410 and xv, col. 159. Combining with Dom Grappin the 'Datum etc. xiiii Aprilis' of the Barberini and Chigi copies, the date is restricted to April 18, 1425, or April 18, 1429. The earlier date is the more probable, if the aid of Jean de Neuchâtel [see p. 34] was invoked in his capacity of Grand Bouteiller de France, which he ceased to be in 1427.

(f. 35d.) Besançon, specially belonging to the pope's gift, to John, then prior of la Charité (de Caritate), annulling the election of any person thereto. The pope therefore exhorts the above knight to put aside all private affection, and assist abbot John in such wise that he may overcome all obstacles and obtain peaceable possession in accordance with the pope's provision.

To Henry, cardinal of England, legate of the apostolic see. The pope has with grief heard, from the legate's chancellor, Nicholas Bildeston, of the disgraceful flight of the army of the faithful in Bohemia [Aug. 2, 1427, from the siege of Mies (Stribro) to Tachau (Tachov) where it was met by the legate, and from Tachau to the frontier on Aug. 4]. He commends the cardinal for promptly betaking himself to Bohemia, and for his efforts with the princes and the army. The cardinal must persevere with his enterprise, and is to strive in season and out of season with the princes and prelates of Almain. There is no need for the pope to give him detailed instructions. One thing of importance the pope may mention, namely the alleged evil life of some of the prelates and clergy of Almain. These, and notably the archbishop of Cologne and the bishop of Würzburg (Herbipolen.), he is to admonish. The archbishops of Cologne and Mainz, too, he is to order to cease their warfare, and turn their forces instead against the heretics. For if they had joined those in Bohemia as they ought, and as had been arranged, the army would not have retreated with such disgrace. *Dilecto filio Henrico . . . salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. To Humphrey, duke of Gloucester. Among the many injuries which the apostolic see has received from England the recent violence to Master John de Obizis, the pope's nuncio and collector, and his imprisonment, have grievously affected the pope, whose orders he was carrying out. It has been asserted that the duke himself was the guilty person, but this the pope cannot believe, and has resolved to await the duke's own explanation. In answer to the representations of Master Julian, auditor of the court of the camera, about the abolition of the execrable statute against ecclesiastical liberty, made to the king in the duke's presence, the king replied to the pope that as soon as convenient he would call a parliament, without which the statute could not be abolished, and therein would do what was possible. The pope urges the duke, as the person next in importance after the king, when the said parliament meets, to use all diligence in extirpating that detestable statute. To meet all objections, the pope once again offers to provide a remedy for all the causes on account of which the statute is said to have been made, so that neither the realm nor any particular person shall suffer any loss on account of the abolition. In respect of the whole matter and the pope's intention the duke may give full credence to the above Master John de Obizis, who has been instructed by the pope's letters [see f. 47]. *Dilecto filio . . . salutem etc. Inter multas quas a regno Anglie . . . To bishops and nobles, the parliament of England. The pope has frequently urged them to abolish a certain detestable statute, king Henry's answer in regard to which the pope repeats, as in the preceding. He has waited until now, when parliament, it is said, is about to meet, and exhorts and admonishes them to abolish the said abominable statute. For no one who observes it can be saved, nor can they repute him a catholic who does any thing against the authority of the Roman church and the divinely bestowed rights and privileges of the apostolic see. The pope is ready to meet all objections, as in the preceding. To Charles, king of France. The pope has been no less displeased than he that the English, who had been got ready to go to Bohemia against the heretics, have gone to France. As soon as he heard of it he wrote to tell the king [see the next following letter], and, unable to do anything better, wrote immediately to the cardinal of Winchester also, reproaching him. The cardinal excused himself on the ground that he was under orders from king Henry, and that his force insisted on obeying the king. The pope is clearly not to blame, grieves that his orders have been set aside, and congratulates the king on his success. He is, as the king requests, again writing to the cardinal (see f. 53). *[C]arissimo . . . salutem etc. Non minorem displicentiam habuimus . . . To the same. The pope has thought it right that the king should know that, if it be true that the cardinal is going to France, he is doing so against the pope's wish and desire, and without his authority. *[C]arissimo . . . salutem etc. Nuper cum procul dubio . . . To Nemeas Ofindrachtaid, rector of the parish church, called the comorbanship (comorbania), of Cluones in the diocese of Clogher. Rehabilitation at his recent petition, containing that Baldassar, called John XXIII, ordered certain judges to collate and assign to him the above, as void by the death of Henry Magmachuna; adding that after he had obtained possession he was forced by the intimidation of Peter Maguyr, priest, of the said diocese, to promise under oath to pay him a certain sum, and three marks a year besides, until Peter should be promoted to some dignity; and adding further that some assert that the rectory became void otherwise than as above, and is therefore still void. Besides rehabilitating and freeing him from his oath, the pope grants that the collation and provision made to him of the rectory, whose value does not exceed 60 marks, shall hold good from the present date, notwithstanding that he has been lately received by authority of the ordinary as a canon of Clogher. Vite etc. (*Antonius. xxiii^{us}. To Dermot Macblosaid, priest, of the diocese of Derry. Rehabilitation, etc., as below. He formerly received papal dispensation on account of illegitimacy (being, as he stated, according to the common opinion, the son of a priest and an unmarried woman) to be promoted, etc., as above, f. 88d, after which he, being tonsured, obtained by authority of the ordinary, on its voidance by the death of John Mecchait, the rectory of Drungrosa or de Roa alias the comorbanship of St. Kannicius in the diocese of Derry, which is of the patronage of laymen, and which has under it three other churches, the fruits of which other churches belong, two parts to the rector of the above church, and one part to the perpetual vicars instituted in them. Afterwards, hearing a rumour that he was the son of a priest and a married woman, he (without mentioning that he had received the fruits of the said rectory for two years and that, although having no dispensation super hoc, he had not been ordained priest) obtained papal dispensation to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold the said rectory or other benefice with cure, and, having been so promoted, celebrated mass divers times. At his petition, stating that he has resigned possession of the said rectory, and has studied canon law at Oxford for several years and in studia particularia, the pope rehabilitates him and dispenses him to minister in his orders. Sedes apostolica, pia mater.

Confirmation as below. The recent petition of the parishioners of the church of the conventual priory of Holy Trinity, London, O.S.A., contained that formerly parish services were performed and mass and other divine offices celebrated for them by one of the canons in the said church at the altar of St. Mary Magdalene at the south side of it; that afterwards, on account of the dissonance arising from singing at the said altar and in the choir, and other inconvenience to them and to the prior and convent, a church or chapel, without a font, of Holy Trinity and St. Catherine the Virgin was built by mutual consent for the said services and offices, certain times being excepted; and that bishop Richard ordained that a font should be erected in the said church or chapel of St. Catherine, that the services, about which dissensions had arisen, should be held perpetually therein, that on the feasts of Holy Trinity and the morrow of St. Bartholomew the Apostle, namely the dedication of the priory church, the parishioners should attend the latter and each offer a penny, halfpenny or farthing, and that the said church or chapel of St. Catherine should be served, as before, by one of the canons or his deputy, etc. The pope hereby confirms the bishop's ordinance. *Ad fut. rei mem. To Richard de Muor, priest, of the diocese of Ardfert. Rehabilitation on account of the following. The late Angelus Corario, bishop in the universal church, then called Gregory XII, ordered provision to be made to him, then in minor orders only, of the rectories of Anach and Cluhirbryn in the above diocese, of the patronage of laymen, and dispensed him to hold them together for life. He obtained the said rectories under the said mandate, which stated, amongst other things, that he was of knightly birth, that the rectory of Anach was void by the death of Maurice Fyt, that formerly the vicarage of Cluhirbryn was separated from the rectory thereof, and that the said rectories were reputed to be a single benefice, whereas in fact he was not noble except in so far as his father and his grandfather on his mother's side were the sons of knights' daughters, and the rectory of Anach was void by the death of Maurice Ykahil. Further, he obtained and has long held with the above rectories, without dispensation, the perpetual vicarage of Any in the diocese of Emly, void by the death of Thomas Yldeayn (Yladeayn on f. 254d) without, however, receiving any fruits from it. He is to resign all three. Sedes apostolica. [See Cal. VI, 131, which has Maurice Wythe.]

To John Omorra, priest, of the diocese of Leighlin. Validation from the present date of the letters whereby Baldassar, then called John XXIII, ordered provision to be made to him (who had had papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted etc. as above, f. 114) of the parish church of Killeban in the diocese of Leighlin, value not exceeding 20 marks, void by the death of Cucogrus Omorra; notwithstanding that the said letters omitted to mention that the church was of the patronage of laymen. *Vite etc. [See Cal. To Thomas Clyff, rector of Islep in the diocese of Lincoln. Dispensation to him, who is in minor orders only, not to be bound during seven years, whilst studying letters at an university, to be promoted to other holy orders on account of the said church, of which he has not yet had a year's possession, or of any other benefice, provided that within the said year he be ordained subdeacon. Vite etc.

6 Id. Nov.

(f. 182d.)

To William Neuport, canon of Lichfield, B.C.L. Prolongation of Boniface IX's dispensation to hold for seven years with his archdeaconry of Salop, which is a dignity with cure, any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, even if the holder were bound to be a priest, and to resign both meanwhile as often as he pleased, for exchange or otherwise, and not be bound during the said period to have himself ordained priest [Cal. Lett. V, p. 474]. He exchanged the said archdeaconry for that of Kermerdyn, which is a non-major dignity, and obtained the parish church of Wyggeston alias Wykynggeston, in the diocese of Lincoln, the value of each not exceeding 60 marks, which he has held for some time, as he still does, as well as the canonries and prebends of Langanten and Landarrok in Abergwilly, Estrat in Landewybrevy, in the diocese of St. Davids, and Longedon in Lichfield, value not exceeding 55 marks. Of the said seven years, reckoning from the time when he began to hold the two incompatible benefices, a good portion has still to run, but Hugh Martyll, priest, of the diocese of York, on the ground that the seven years ought to be reckoned from the date when the said dispensation was granted and that they have therefore expired, has had himself presented to the said parish church, as being void, against which presentation William has appealed to the apostolic see. The pope hereby holds that the period of seven years is to be reckoned as above, namely from the time when he began to hold the incompatible benefices, and prolongs it for three years more. Litterarum sciencia, vite etc.

(f. 196d.)

To John, archbishop of Tuam. Indult to him, who is a Friar Preacher and a master of theology, to have for life as his private chaplain a friar of his said Order. Personam tuam. [Ripoll, Bullar. Praed. II., p. 549.]

6 Kal. March.
Constance.
(f. 213.)

To the archdeacon of Armagh. Mandate etc. as below, in behalf of William Mackamail, rector of Cl[u]ainfyacla in the diocese of Armagh. Baldassar, called John XXIII, ordered collation to be made to William (who had had papal dispensation as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted etc. as above, f. 114, and to whom the same pope had previously, by other letters, ordered provision to be made of the above rectory of Cluainfyacla) of the rectory of Ardtrea in the said diocese, void because the late Cornelius Oneyl had held it for more than a year without having himself ordained priest and without dispensation super hoc, dispensing him to hold both rectories for life. At the recent petition of William, containing that it is alleged that the rectory of Ardtrea, which he obtained under the above letters, became and is still void, not as above, but because Eugenius Oneyll, rector of Acheocayll in the diocese of Connor, whilst holding Ardtrea obtained Acheocayll by papal authority, and that William fears molestation on account of the above allegation, and also because he, having obtained Cluainfyacla under the said earlier letters, was dispensed by the late archbishop Nicholas, by his ordinary authority, during four years to be ordained subdeacon only whilst studying letters at an university, and had himself ordained subdeacon within a year of obtaining the rectories of the said two churches (the cure of which is exercised by perpetual vicars), but, relying on the said archbishop's dispensation, the letters of which on account of the archbishop's death were not drawn up, and proof of which he cannot produce, has not been ordained priest. The pope therefore orders the above archdeacon, provided that William, who says he has studied canon law for three years, will swear to the truth of the preceding, to decree that he is not to be molested on account of the said rectories, the value of each of which does not exceed 12 marks, and to grant that the collation and provision made to him of Ardtrea shall hold good from the present date, even though it became void in the other way mentioned, and dispenses him hereby to hold the two rectories together for life. Vite etc. (Franciscus. xxiiii. Octaua Kal. Septembris Anno Primo. de Agello.)

11 Kal. April.
Constance.

Ratification etc. as below. The recent petition of Nicholas, bishop of Bath and Wells, contained that a cause arose between the late bishop John and the late Stephen Pempel (also written Pempell), dean of Wells, about the bishop's ancient jurisdiction in spiritual causes arising in the church, city and suburb of Wells, crimes etc. of the subdeans, canons etc., probate etc. of the wills of the same, etc.; and that the cause was submitted to the arbitration of the late brother Nicholas, abbot of Cirencester, O.S.A., and Thomas Wormenhale, licentiate of civil law, canon of Salisbury. Exemplification is given of a public instrument drawn up by Thomas Benet, notary public, stating that in the year of the Incarnation 1378 (? rectius 1377) after the reckoning of the English church, indiction 15, anno 7 Gregory XI, Aug. 7, the above two arbitrators sat to deliver sentence, that the bishop's proctor, John de Dudm[er]ton, vicar of St. Mary's de Stalles, Bath, duly appeared, that dean Stephen did not appear, and was pronounced contumacious and condemned in costs. The above instrument contains exemplification of the said sentence in favour of the bishop, with the proctorial letters of the above John de Dudm[er]ton and the declaration of the said proctor, as also of Nicholas Hethe, clerk, of the diocese of Exeter, proctor of the dean in his cause against the bishop and Master Thomas Spert, his official or commissary, urging, amongst other things, the case of the will of Master William Whyte, sometime subdean of Wells, recently deceased within the said city and suburb, the probate of which the bishop usurped from the dean. Those present at the sentence are the above Master Thomas Spert, D.C.L., and Robert Sleo, canons of Wells, Hugh Werstone and Robert Welesborne, clerks, notaries public, of the dioceses of Worcester, Wells and Salisbury, and many others. The said petition of bishop Nicholas adding that although he has gained three definitive sentences in the Roman court against the present dean, Walter Medforde, he fears lest the above sentence may in course of time lose its effect, the pope hereby ratifies the said sentence, and declares that it shall be binding in perpetuity, and that the present exemplification shall have the force of the original. Ad perp. rei mem. Ad Christi vicarii.

Collation and provision of the above priory to him, who is of noble race and who, then a canon of St. Andrews, was elected to the priory, a major elective dignity, with cure, on the death of James Biset, papal chaplain, by the chapter in accordance with ancient custom, both parties being perhaps ignorant that Peter de Luna, then called Benedict XIII, had reserved all major cathedral dignities, which reservation having been, after the said pope had, without having disposed of the priory, been deposed by the Council of Constance, continued by the present pope, the priory still remains reserved and therefore void; notwithstanding that he had a suit, which has remained undecided, in the palace of the said pope about the priory of May, O.S.A., in the diocese of St. Andrews, all right to which priory he is to resign as soon as he obtains St. Andrews under these presents. Religionis etc.

To William Croyser, canon of Dunkeld, M.A. Grant as below. The pope has this day (by other letters making mention of an earlier grant to him by the pope of provision of a benefice with or without cure in the gift of the bishop and chapter of Aberdeen) ordered collation and provision to be made to him of the canonry and prebend in Glasgow and the archdeaconry of Teviotdale (Thevidalie) in that church, which became void by the death of James Walteri [below, p. 98]. Seeing that the pope had made to him, not the said grant, but another grant of two benefices, with or without cure, wont to be assigned to secular clerks, in the gift of the bishops and chapters of Aberdeen and St. Andrews, and dispensed him to hold together for life such two incompatible benefices, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, and hold instead two other incompatible benefices, lest the said letters ordering the provision to him of the above canonry and prebend and archdeaconry be attacked as surreptitious, the pope hereby grants that they shall hold good, and that the executors thereof may and shall proceed in virtue alike of them and of these presents, as if they contained full and express mention of the above second grant and dispensation. Litterarum etc. (*Antonius. xvi. Peter de Luna, called Benedict XIII, granted to him in commendam the parish church of Kyrkgun[z]en in the diocese of Glasgow, value not exceeding 20 marks of old sterlings, united to the Cistercian monastery of Volme in the diocese of Carlisle, for his life and as long as the said monastery should remain without the obedience of the said pope. At his petition, setting forth that he has held the said church for some years and that the said union, if such exist, will be of little profit to the said monastery on account of the wars between England and Scotland, the pope renews to him the said grant in commendam until a lasting peace be made. He is a student of theology, holds a canonry and prebend in Dunkeld, value not exceeding 6 marks, is litigating about the parish church of Torbalton in the diocese of Glasgow, value not exceeding 40 marks, of which he has not got possession, and the present pope has granted him provision of a canonry and prebend and the precentorship, which is a dignity with cure, in Moray, value not exceeding 50 marks (cf. p. 92), and of a benefice with or without cure in the gift of the bishop and chapter of Aberdeen, and has dispensed him to hold together for three years Torbalton and the said precentorship [below, pp. 92, 93]. Litterarum etc.

The pope has to-day made collation and provision to him, who says he is of a noble family, of the above priory, an elective major dignity with cure, previously reserved, without making mention of its value. At his petition (containing that the prior has no revenue apart from the capitular mensa, but that all the goods belong to the prior and chapter in common, and that he desires the mention of his being of noble family to be suppressed in the letters of collation, as being likely to give rise to difficulty) the pope grants that the said letters shall hold good, and that the executors thereof may and shall proceed as if the value of the priory were fully expressed according to the common valuation, and as if the said mention were not made. Religionis etc. [See above, p. 63.]

Non. Dec.
Constance.

To James, [bishop] elect of Penna, residing in the Roman court. Mandate as below. The recent petition of John Curke, clerk, of the diocese of Ossory, B.C.L., contained that on the voidance of the deanery of Ossory, by the promotion by papal authority, and by the consecration of Patrick, bishop, now of Ossory, formerly of Cork, to the latter see, the chapter elected in accordance with ancient custom the late John Stafford, clerk, who obtained confirmation of the election from the late Thomas, bishop of Ossory [see Cal. Lett. VI, p. 240]; that a suit which arose between Stafford and John Hallart, priest, of the diocese of Ossory, who claimed the deanery, was at Hallart's instance committed by Baldassar, called John XXIII, although the cause had not by its nature devolved to the Roman court, to the above bishop, then a papal chaplain and auditor; and that while the suit has been pending Stafford has died in possession. The pope therefore orders the bishop to surrogate the above Curke (who had papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders, and hold a benefice even with cure, and afterwards to hold three other mutually compatible benefices, with or without cure, and to resign them as often as he pleased, for exchange or simply) to Stafford's right at the time of his death, and moreover to collate and assign to him the deanery itself, a major dignity with cure, value not exceeding 60 marks to a non-resident, removing any unlawful detainer; notwithstanding that Curke was presented by a lay patron to the late archbishop of Dublin, during voidance of the see of Ossory, for the perpetual vicarage of Callen in the latter diocese, value not exceeding 30 marks. Upon obtaining the deanery he is to resign all right to the said vicarage. Litterarum etc. (Antonius. xxx. Die duodecima Julii m^occcc^oxviii^o. de Ponto.)

the late John, archbishop of Armagh, who by his ordinary authority admitted the resignations and carried out the exchange, although Magrogy had not been sufficiently dispensed on account of illegitimacy,—seeing that the said vicarage of Achadluuga is still void by Peter's resignation, although Magrogy unlawfully detains possession, to summon him and others concerned, and if he find the facts to be as stated, to collate and assign it, value not exceeding 6 marks, to Omurigan, who has had papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted, etc. as above, f. 66d. Vite etc.

To the abbot of Sawtre in the diocese of Lincoln. Mandate (at the petition of the abbot and convent of Rameseye, O.S.B., in the diocese of Lincoln, containing that they set forth to Boniface IX that William Waltham, rector of Someresham in the said diocese, falsely asserting the meadow or marsh called "Crowlodmedwe," situate within the bounds of the parish of Catheritz in the same diocese and belonging to the said monastery, to be within the bounds of Someresham and the tithes arising from it to belong to the rector of Someresham, brought before the official of Ely the following parishioners of Catheritz, cultivators in common of the said meadow, namely William Smyth of Catheritz, William Whythede [not in Cal. Lett. V], William Heyne, William Tayllor, John Chenyngwolde, John Masselqu' [Masseleyn, ibid.], John Bottesson, John Mason the younger, John Stevenson, John Swetmelk, John Smyth and Peter Anbry [Aubin, ibid.]; and that the said official, without summoning the said abbot and convent, gave a definitive and unjust sentence adjudging the tithes to the said rector, and condemning the said parishioners to pay them to him, from which sentence the abbot and convent, as soon as they heard of it, appealed to the apostolic see, and obtained from pope Boniface commission of the cause to the above abbot of Sawtre [Cal. Lett. V, p. 431]; that after the said abbot, and subsequently the official of Lincoln as his delegate, had taken certain proceedings, short of a definitive sentence, William died, and that the abbot and convent fear lest the said abbot and official may refuse to proceed further) to summon the present rector of Someresham and others concerned, resume the cause at the stage which it had reached, and hear and decide it in accordance with the letters of pope Boniface. Exhibita nobis.

To Master John de Opizis, papal chaplain and auditor. Mandate as below. The recent petition of William Silk, perpetual vicar of Delvyn in the diocese of Meath, contained that a cause arose lately between Thomas Saynt Legger alias de Sancto Leodegario and the late Thomas Hunt, priests, of the said diocese, about the canonry and prebend of Malaghyddirthe, otherwise commonly called Castleknock (de Castrocnok) on the dean's side, in Dublin, on whose voidance by Robert Sutton, canon of Dublin, obtaining by collation of the ordinary another canonry and prebend therein, Hunt claimed them under a papal provision, which Saynt Legger opposed; that the cause, although it had not by its nature devolved to the Roman court, was committed by Baldassar, called John XXIII, at Hunt's instance, to the above auditor, who has proceeded short of a conclusion. Seeing that, as the petition added, Hunt has died while the suit was pending, the pope orders the auditor to surrogate Silk to Hunt's right, if any, and to collate and assign to him the canonry and prebend themselves, whose value does not exceed 86 marks; notwithstanding that he holds the canonries and prebends of Molaghynan in Cashel and Oghorath in Ossory, the free chapel without cure of Carryk, under papal dispensation for a period not yet expired the rectory of Ard-mulghan, in the dioceses of Ferns and Meath, and the above vicarage of Delvyn, value respectively not exceeding 8, 12, 12, 40 and 36 marks, out of the fruits of which rectory 26 marks have by papal authority been reserved, to be assigned by Silk as a life pension to another. Vite etc.

(f. 27.)

To Master Geminianus de Prato, papal chaplain and auditor. Mandate as below. A suit arose between Richard Pellyn, canon of Lismore, and John Corr alias Garot, priest, of the diocese of Cork, about the perpetual vicarage of Kynsalle in the said diocese, which became void by the deprivation for his demerits of the said John by Richard, archbishop of Cashel, by his authority as metropolitan, and which Richard claimed under collation and provision by the ordinary, which collation and provision John opposed, preventing them from taking effect. The cause, although not devolved by its nature to the Roman court, was committed by Baldassar, called John XXIII, at Richard's instance, to the above auditor, who proceeded short of a conclusion, and upon its being alleged that neither Richard nor John had any right, the same pope ordered the auditor, on 18 Kal. Jan. anno 5 [1414], if this proved to be the case, to collate and assign the vicarage, value not exceeding 40 marks, to Richard; notwithstanding that Richard held the deanery of Cork, a major dignity, value not exceeding 8 marks, and canonries and prebends of Lismore and Emly, value not exceeding 7 marks, requiring him, upon obtaining the said vicarage, to resign the said deanery. In pursuance of the said mandate, the letters of which were not drawn up while those parts were of the obedience of pope John, the pope hereby orders the auditor, if it prove that neither of the litigants has a right, to collate and assign the vicarage to Richard. Racioni congruit. To the bishop of Ciudad Rodrigo, and the abbots of Trym and Navan in the diocese of Meath. Mandate to collate and assign to Robert Sutton, canon of Dublin, the still void archdeaconry of Kenlys in Meath, a non-major dignity, value not exceeding 100 marks, which, on its voidance by the death of Adam le Nase, Robert obtained by collation and provision made under letters of Baldassar, called John XXIII, by which he had expectation of one or two benefices, even if such one or one of such two had cure or were a dignity etc., in the common or several gift of the archbishop of Dublin and the bishop of Meath, in the gift of which latter is the said archdeaconry. He doubts whether the said collation and provision hold good. The present collation is to be made notwithstanding that Robert (who, when holding the parish church of Slane in the diocese of Meath, was dispensed by papal authority to hold therewith for life one other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, and to resign both, for exchange or otherwise, as often as he pleased) holds the said church of Slane and the canonry and prebend of Howth in Dublin, value not exceeding 120 marks. Vite etc. (Antonius. xxvi. Decimo Kal. Augusti Anno ponto (sic). de Ponto.)

To the abbot of Mayo in the diocese of Tuam, and the provost of Achonry. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Murianus Ygamnan, canon of Tuam, contained that archbishop John, seeing that the fruits, not exceeding in value about a mark and a half, of the prebends of Kyllmygany, Cluaynmor and Kyllcurrnan (which were wont to be assigned, sometimes to one canon as a single prebend, and sometimes to more than one canon as separate prebends), were, on their becoming void by Cornelius Okeallayd, sometime canon of Tuam, obtaining by collation of the ordinary another prebend of Tuam, called Nakeallineg, unduly held possession of by certain persons; and that the perpetual vicarages of Croysbuythyn, Cluaynmor and Kyllcurrnan could be governed and the cure of their parishioners exercised by the perpetual vicar for the time being of Croysbuythyn, ordained that the said prebends should be a single prebend under the name of Kyllmygany, and that the said vicarages should be governed as above, and their parishioners go for mass etc. to the church of Croysbuythyn as their parish church. He further appropriated and united to the said prebend of Kyllmygany (which he collated and made provision of to the above Murianus, whom he had already admitted as a canon of Tuam) the above perpetual vicarages and those of Balla in the diocese of Tuam, formerly Mayo, and Duloch in the diocese of Tuam, and the parish church called the custodia of the Relics of St. Hyerlatheus, commonly called Tempullnascriny, in the diocese of Tuam, value altogether not exceeding 23 marks. At the said petition, which adds that it is asserted that the said prebends, united and made one as above, and vicarages and the church called the custodia had been so long void at the time of the said unions etc. that the collation of them had by the Lateran statutes lapsed to the apostolic see, the pope orders the above two, if they find the facts to be as stated, to confirm the archbishop's proceedings, and to again collate and assign the said prebend of Kyllmygany, with its said annexes, to Murianus; notwithstanding that the pope has this day ordered provision to be made to him of the rectories of Raythcurrnan and Balymgarrga in the said diocese of Tuam, formerly of Mayo, value not exceeding 10 marks, with suppression of the cure of souls therein (see below). *Apostolice sedis circumspccta benignitas. (f. 90.)

To the abbot of Boyle (de Buellio) in the diocese of Elphin and William Ofloynn, canon of Tuam. Mandate as below. The recent petition of the above Murianus contained that the above archbishop John, on the voidance of the rectories, of the patronage of laymen, of Raytheurnnan and Balyngarrga in the diocese of Tuam, formerly of Mayo, because their respective rectors Thady Oconcurbair and Elias (Helyas) Macmic (this word is added in the margin) Helyas Prindragas had held them for more than a year without having themselves ordained priests and without having dispensation super hoc, seeing that the said rectories had but little cure of souls, suppressed it and transferred it to the perpetual vicars or chaplains or ministers of the churches of Kyllmygany and Crosbuythyn respectively, likewise in the diocese of Tuam, formerly of Mayo. At the same time he made collation and provision to Murianus of the said rectories, value not exceeding 10 marks, thus void, and so long void, as some asserted, that the collation of them had by the Lateran statutes lapsed to the archbishop. At the said petition, which adds that it is asserted that the rectories had, at the time of the said collations and provisions, been so long void that by the said statutes their collation had lapsed to the apostolic see, the pope orders the above two, if they find the facts to be as stated, to confirm the archbishop's proceedings, and to collate and assign the said rectories to Murianus, notwithstanding that the pope has this day ordered provision to be made to him of the prebend of Kyllmygany in Tuam with its annexes, value not exceeding 24½ marks, and that he was lately admitted by authority of the ordinary as a canon of Tuam. Sedis apostolicæ providencia circumspecta (sic). (f. 102.)

To Solomon Obrolcham, rector of Cluynchaka in the diocese of Derry. Rehabilitation on account of the following. Baldassar, called John XXIII, on learning that the above rectory was void because David Omurgisan had obtained and held with it for more than a month the rectory of Cluynmari in the same diocese against 'Execrabilis,' ordered it to be collated and assigned to Solomon, who had had papal dispensation, as the son of a priest, O.S.A., and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders, and hold a benefice even with cure. After obtaining possession under the said mandate, he was obliged to give to Luke Om[o]lmoichchair, clerk, of the said diocese, who opposed his possession, a moiety of the fruits, less two ducats. It is further asserted that the said rectory (which has under it divers chapels with perpetual vicars) is called a plebania and is wont to be governed by canons of Derry, no mention of which was made in the said mandate, and that it became void otherwise than as stated above. The pope decrees that Solomon is not bound to give the said moiety, rehabilitates him, and grants that the said mandate shall have force from the present date, notwithstanding the said omission. Vite etc.

(f. 179.)

To the bishop of Ardagh. Mandate as below. The recent petition of John Magillavanem, clerk, of the diocese of Ardagh, contained that for more than the last thirty years the deans of Ardagh, in pursuance of an union made to the deanery (which is a major dignity and of which, about to become void, the pope has ordered provision to be made to the said John) by authority of the ordinary of the perpetual vicarage of Gleand in the said diocese, have taken the fruits etc. thereof, the parish church itself being devoid of parishioners on account of wars, etc. At the said petition—which added that John is unable to guarantee (jidem facere) whether the said union was temporary or perpetual, and that the fruits etc. of the deanery are insufficient for the maintenance of the dean and his expenses for hospitality etc.—the pope hereby orders the above bishop, if he find the facts to be as stated, to appropriate and unite in perpetuity the said vicarage to the deanery, value not exceeding 6 and 20 marks respectively. Digna exaudicione. [See above, p. 89.]

(f. 270.)

To the bishop of Arezzo (Aretin.), the dean of Killaloe and the treasurer of Kilmacduagh. Mandate to collate and assign to Denis Odonchuga, priest, of the diocese of Kilmacduagh (who lately received papal dispensation, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman related in the third and fourth degrees of kindred, to be promoted etc. as above, f. 102), the still void rectory, value not exceeding 8 [cf. above, p. 90] marks, of Clecealle alias Kynaledga Hieratrach in the said diocese, to which, on its voidance by the resignation of Nemeas Ymycherayn to bishop Eugenius, he was presented by the patron Walter de Burgo, and instituted by the said bishop. He doubts whether the presentation and institution hold good. The collation is to be made whether the rectory became void as above, or by the non-promotion [to the priesthood] of John Mecleyn, or in any other way. Vite etc. (Franciscus. xxii. Tercio Kal. Septembris Anno Primo. de Agello.) [See below, pp. 105, 106.]

(f. 237.)

To the bishop of Sessa (Suessan.), the archdeacon of Killaloe, and Donald Oscannlayn, canon of Ardfert. Mandate to collate and assign to Roderick Ogyllascanayn, priest, of the diocese of Killaloe (who has had dispensation from the ordinary, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to have the tonsure, and, after having received the tonsure, papal dispensation to be promoted to all minor and major orders and hold a benefice with or without cure), the perpetual vicarage of Kyllfreborach in the said diocese, value not exceeding 12 marks, which on its voidance (because Cornelius Oloyngsyg had held it for more than a year without having himself ordained priest and without dispensation super hoc) Roderick obtained under papal collation and provision, and has held it, though not peaceably, for more than a year without having himself ordained priest, on account of an impediment, wherefore he doubts whether it be not still void as above. Vite etc. (Franciscus. xviii. Tercio Nonas Decembris Anno Secundo. de Agello.)

(f. 311d.)

To James, elect of Penna. Mandate as below. James Symond, rector of St. Mary's, Kildalk, in the diocese of Meath, set forth to Baldassar, called John XXIII, that a suit had arisen between himself and the late Maurice Obeyn, clerk, about the archdeaconry of Glendalough (Glyndelacen.) in Dublin, a non-major dignity with cure, value not exceeding 50 marks, on the voidance of which by papal provision being made to Thomas, now bishop of Ossory, of the see of Lismore, James claimed that provision was made to him by papal authority; that at the instance of James, the late Angelus, then called Gregory XII, committed the cause, although not devolved by its nature to the Roman court, to the late Jerome de Sydenbergh, papal chaplain and auditor, and that afterwards John XXIII committed it to the above bishop, then a papal chaplain and auditor, whilst the suit was pending before whom Maurice died; that the same pope John, upon the expected voidance of all right possessed in or to the archdeaconry by Donald, elect of Derry (who claimed to have had provision of it by papal authority, and was in possession), by the provision made to him by the said pope of the said see, and by his then approaching consecration, ordered the above bishop, on 7 Kal. March anno 5 [1415], to surrogate James to whatever right the above Maurice had possessed at the time of his death etc., and to collate and assign to him the archdeaconry itself; notwithstanding that James had had papal dispensation to hold for life any two benefices with cure or otherwise incompatible, and resign them as often as he pleased, simply or for exchange, and that he held the above parish church, value not exceeding 60 marks. The pope hereby decrees that the said mandate of John XXIII shall take effect from the said date, notwithstanding that the letters thereof were not drawn up during his obedience in the said parts, and that the present letters shall suffice as proof thereof; and orders the above bishop, who still holds by the pope's order the place of an auditor, to execute it. Racioni congruit. (Antonius. xxvi. Serto decimo Kal. Jan. Anno Secundo. de Ponto.) [See Cal. Lett. VI, pp. 414, 444, and above p. 92.]

To John Oconnbaith. Collation, as below, of the perpetual vicarage of Killeny in Nabayr, in the diocese of Kilfenora, value not exceeding 3 marks, which became void and reserved to John XXIII by the death of Matthew Ocondbaith at the apostolic see, in ignorance, perhaps, of which reservation Richard, archbishop of Cashel, by his authority as metropolitan, made collation and provision of it to John, who had previously, when in his eighteenth year, obtained the rectory of Carudnahymigean de Ybflathmat in the same diocese, and who has held both rectory and vicarage together for several years without having himself ordained priest and without dispensation. The late John, archbishop of Armagh, confirmed the creation, and subsequently archbishop Nicholas, on the voidance of a canonry of the said church and of the prebend of Achadeyrg by the death of Thomas Omustrad, made collation and provision to John of the said prebend, claiming that its collation belonged to him for that turn. (f. 38d.)

To the abbot of Holyrood (Sancte Crucis), Edinburgh, in the diocese of St. Andrews. Mandate as below. The recent petition of the provost, bailies and commonalty (universitas) of Edinburgh contained that they desire the erection into a collegiate church of the parish church of St. Giles (the patronage of which, formerly belonging to the king, has been surreptitiously acquired by the Augustinian abbot and convent of Scone in the said diocese, and in which there are at present thirteen perpetual chaplaincies), the creation of a provostship, as a principal dignity, from its perpetual vicarage or rectory, and the creation of canonries and prebends and other dignities etc. from the said chaplaincies and other resources; adding that, in order that the said erection may be made, they are ready to promise to find 100 gold crowns a year for the increase of the endowment of the college or capitular mensa, and to urge on the work of building the said church, for which a few years ago more than 5,000 or 6,000*l.* of old sterlings were laid out; that the patronage of the said chaplaincies belongs to them, and that the fruits etc. of the said vicarage do not exceed a yearly value of 100*l.* The above abbot is ordered to summon the said abbot and convent and others concerned, and if he find that the said patronage was acquired by them as stated, to decree that it does not belong to them, to carry out, upon the said provost etc. undertaking to provide the said 100 crowns within a fixed period, and upon the consent being given of the persons interested on account of the said patronage, the desired erection and creations, and, in the event of his doing so, to collate and assign the provostship, thus created, to Edward de Lawedre, rector of Southack in the diocese of Glasgow, M.A., who lately received papal dispensation, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure, afterwards to hold two other benefices therewith, and subsequently to hold any mutually compatible benefices, of any number and kind, with and without cure, even if canonries and prebends, dignities etc., and to resign them for exchange or otherwise as often as he pleased, and furthermore to hold together, first for five years and subsequently during the pleasure of the apostolic see, the said church of Southack and the archdeaconry of Lothian (Laudonic) in St. Andrews, a non-major elective dignity with cure, provision of which, previously reserved, the present pope made to him, and to resign them both, simply or for exchange. The patronage of the provostship, except for this turn, and of the said canonries and prebends etc., is to be reserved in perpetuity to the said provost, bailies and commonalty. The collation is to be made notwithstanding that Edward holds Southak (sic), which in a certain event he is bound to resign, that provision was made to him of the said archdeaconry, as above, value not exceeding 20 and 100*l.* respectively, and that the present pope has granted him provision of the parish church of Lyston in the said diocese, value not exceeding 100*l.*, and of canonries with reservation of prebends of Glasgow and Dunkeld, and of a dignity etc. of one of them. Upon obtaining the provostship, he is to resign Southak, as he

1419. has offered, and the grant in regard to Lyston and the other grant, as far as regards such dignity etc., are to be null and void. Ex superne providencia. [3 $\frac{3}{4}$ pp.]

(f. 41d.) To John Warthyll, clerk, of the diocese of York. Dispensation, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold four compatible benefices with or without cure, even if canonries and prebends of other than cathedral churches, and to resign them, simply or for exchange. Illegitime genitos. [In the date 'anno tercio' is corrected by Jacobus de Cerretanis to 'anno secundo.']

(f. 47d.) To the archbishop of Canterbury. Mandate to inform himself about the statements made in the recent petition of the mayor and commonalty (dilectorum filiorum altermani et communis) of the city of London, namely, that there was formerly from of old, near the middle (circa medium) of the bridge of the said city, a parish church of St. Thomas the Martyr, and that after the said bridge had been totally destroyed by fire, the masters or wardens appointed for the repair of the bridge, built out of the obventions a chapel in honour of the said Saint where the said church used to stand, and thenceforward, likewise from time immemorial, have received the obventions, alms and offerings made therein, and have converted them to the use of a number of priests and chaplains and others appointed for divine worship in the said chapel, and for the repair of the bridge, as they still do; and that the said mayor and commonalty (altermannus et communitas) continually see to the oft-needed repair of the bridge. If the archbishop find the facts to be as stated, he is to reserve from the said obventions etc. a fit portion for a perpetual chaplain in the said chapel, to be instituted by the ordinary, and to grant licence to the said mayor and commonalty (altermano et communitati) to receive what remains and to apply it to the said repair. Humilibus supplicum rotis.
- 12 Kal. Aug.

(f. 51d.) To Donald Oscachnasayg, rector of Ardrahayn in the diocese of Kilmacduagh. Rehabilitation, on account of the following. Lately the present pope made provision to him of the above church, void in a certain way, of the patronage of laymen, under which he obtained possession, but Denis Macgillavanaha, provost of Kilmacduagh, prevented him from holding peaceable possession and receiving the fruits etc., in consequence of which and of the threats of Denis's abettors, he promised under oath to assign him half the yearly fruits etc., which half Denis still receives, wherefore, and on account of the assertion that the church became void otherwise than was stated, and is still void, he fears molestation. Besides absolving him from his promises and oath, and rehabilitating him, the pope grants that the said provision shall hold good from the present date, in whatsoever way the said rectory, whose value does not exceed 40 marks, became void. *Vite etc. (Franciscus. xxx. (f. 75.)

To William Croyser, canon of Dunkeld, M.A. Grant as below. Lately, namely on 7 Kal. Feb. anno 1 [1418] the pope ordered provision to be made to him of two benefices with or without cure, even if canonries and prebends or dignities, not major nor principal, personatus etc. in the common or several gift of the bishops and chapters of St. Andrews and Aberdeen, and dispensed him to hold together for life such two incompatible benefices, provided that they were not parish churches, and to resign them, simply or for exchange; by successive letters made provision to him of the parish church of Kirkgon[z]en in the diocese of Glasgow in commendam, of a canonry and prebend and the archdeaconry of Teviotdale (Theridalia) in Glasgow, and of the perpetual vicarage of Enverlithan in the said diocese, and dispensed him to hold together during the pleasure of the apostolic see the said vicarage and archdeaconry, and to resign both meanwhile, simply or for exchange; and likewise granted him provision of the parish churches of Magna Caveris and Gogar in the dioceses of Glasgow and St. Andrews and of the archdeaconry of Lothian (Laudonie) in St. Andrews, with its annexes, by virtue of which letters he has obtained Kirkgon[z]en in commendam and the said canonry and prebend and archdeaconry of Teviotdale, and has resigned the said grants and his right in the said vicarage of Enverlithan. At his petition, containing that he doubts whether the said first letters, as regards benefices with cure or dignities, personatus etc. comprised therein, have not been used up (consumptas) on account of the said provision, grants, benefices obtained and resignation, and whether he may not be molested in respect of their taking effect, the pope grants to him (who holds the said church of Kirkgon[z]en in commendam, and holds canonries and prebends of Dunkeld and of Glasgow with the said archdeaconry of Teviotdale, a non-major dignity with cure, value altogether not exceeding 80*l.* of old sterlings) that the said first letters shall hold good from the date thereof, and may and shall be executed. *Litterarum etc. Franciscus. xxv. (f. 87*d.*)

To Thomas Holwell, rector of Macworth in the diocese of Lichfield. Grant as below. John XXIII dispensed him, holding the above parish church and the provostship of the collegiate church of Holyhead (de Castro Kubi) in the diocese of Bangor, an office without cure, to hold for seven years with the said parish church any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, even if a parish church or a perpetual vicarage or a dignity etc., and meanwhile to resign both, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleased [Cal. Lett. VI. p. 206], by virtue of which he has obtained and holds with the said church the archdeaconry of Anglesey in Bangor, a non-major dignity. At his petition, stating that the end of the seven years is at hand, and that the houses and buildings of the said archdeaconry and church, whose total value does not exceed 70 marks, are from no fault of his in great ruin, the pope grants to him, who has been in the service of king Henry for sixteen years, on condition of making the needful repairs, a prolongation by four years of the said period. He is meanwhile to resign one of them for another benefice compatible with the other; if not, he is to resign the church. Vite etc. [See ibid., p. 296.]

To William Croyser, canon of Glasgow and archdeacon of Teviotdale in the same, M.A. Grant as below. Lately the present pope, upon learning of the voidance of a canonry and prebend of Glasgow and the archdeaconry of Teviotdale therein, value not exceeding 80*l.* of old sterlings, by the death of James Walteri, ordered them to be collated and assigned to him. Seeing that Edward de Lawedre, to whom provision was said to have been made of the same, has this day at the apostolic see resigned them and all right in them to John, patriarch of Constantinople, who had verbal mandate from the pope for the purpose, and seeing that, as William's petition contained, it is asserted that the said canonry etc., of which he has obtained possession under the pope's said letters, became and are void otherwise than as above, the pope grants to him (who holds a canonry and prebend of Dunkeld; holds in commendam the parish church of Kyrkgun[z]en under a grant lately made to him by the apostolic see; to whom provision was lately made by papal

17 Kal. June.
St. Peter's, Rome.
(f. 177d.)

To John Were, canon of Glasgow, bachelor of canon law. Decree etc., as below. At the beginning of his pontificate the pope ordered that all who accepted benefices by virtue of expectative graces should within a month after their acceptance cause provision to be made to them by the executors, and that within three more months they should publish such acceptances in their benefice; if not, the grace, acceptance and provision should be null [Ottenthal, Reg. Canc. Apost., No. 44 of the Reg. Mart. V, i.e. No. 41 of the Reg. Jo. XXIII]. Subsequently, on 6 Kal. Feb. anno 1 [1418, above, p. 101] the pope made provision to Were, appointing executors, of a canonry with reservation of a prebend and dignity etc. in Glasgow and of a benefice with or without cure in the gift of the bishop and the prior and chapter of St. Andrews. At his recent petition (containing that by virtue of the said letters he accepted within the lawful time the parish church of Forteviot in the diocese of St. Andrews, then void, and caused provision to be made to himself thereof, and did not publish such acceptance and provision in the said church, although he obtained from a certain papal auditor a citation against a certain claimant to the said church; that he is of royal race, and that he has in presence of a notary public and witnesses abandoned the said suit on the ground of his having no right to the said church on account of the aforesaid) the pope hereby restores the said grace to the state in which it was before the said acceptance and provision, and decrees that he may, in virtue of the said letters, accept a prebend and dignity etc., and benefice, as above, and that the said executors may and shall make provision to him as if the said acceptance and provision had not taken place. Nobilitas generis, litterarum etc. (Franciscus. xrv. Cal. Lett. V, p. 314*) English miles, as well as of wars etc., access to their parish church of St. David, Achanurecyr, in the said diocese, for divine offices and the sacraments, baptisms and burials, was very difficult, especially in the winter and rainy season; and that, if to the chapel of St. Colman, Lynnela (cf. ibid.), in the said country, were subjected the chapels, in the same country, of Rachayn, Kylleacy, Raliffen, Habuge (cf. ibid.), Drumculynd and Eglays, all daughter chapels of and annexed to St. David's, it would be fit for erection into a parish church; and that its fruits and those of the said other chapels were sufficient for a rector and a vicar, the latter to have the cure of the said inhabitants and to pay the episcopal and other dues—ordered the bishop of Termoli and the priors of Duruake and Seirkieran (de Sygro) in the dioceses of Meath and Ossory (cf. ibid. pp. 314 and 407), to separate from St. David's all the said chapels, to erect that of St. Colman into a parish church, to subject thereto the others as daughter chapels, notwithstanding that they had cure, to assign to it the said country as its parish, and to grant that St. Colman's, even if it or any other of the said chapels were of lay patronage, might have font, cemetery and other parochial insignia. At the recent petition of the said inhabitants (containing that Anthony, bishop of Termoli, proceeding alone, separated the said chapel of St. Colman and the others from St. David's, erected the chapel of St. Colman into a parish church, assigned to it the said chapels as daughter chapels and the said country as parish, and granted that it should have font etc.) the pope orders the above prior to summon the rector of St. David's and others concerned, and if he find that the statements of the inhabitants be true, and that the rector of St. David's can be maintained from the rest of the fruits of that church, and pay the episcopal dues etc., to confirm the separation, erection etc. made by the said bishop. Hinc que ad Christifidelium.

19 Kal. June.
St. Peter's, Rome.
(f. 47.)

To Master Peter Nardi, papal chaplain and auditor. Commission and mandate, as below, in behalf of Adam Knaygh, priest, of the diocese of Ossory alias Lismore, to whom (already dispensed by papal authority, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted etc. as in the preceding, after which he obtained and subsequently resigned to the ordinary the perpetual vicarage of St. Nicholas's in the diocese of Waterford) the pope on 11 Kal. Sept. anno 1 [1418, above, p. 92], ordered the dean of Emly and two others [not here named] to collate and assign the archdeaconry of Ossory, void by the death of Thomas Herbryg, at the same time dispensing him to hold it. Adam's recent petition contained that John Penlyn, dean of Emly, proceeding alone, duly made collation and provision to him; that before dean John Adam brought Walter Stanton, [now] dean of Ossory, who was then in possession of the archdeaconry and claimed it, and who appealed from dean John to the apostolic see, obtaining thence letters addressed to the abbot of St. Saviour's, Dowsy, in the diocese of Ossory, before whom he caused Adam to be cited; that after the abbot had proceeded short of a conclusion, Adam appealed from him to the said see, which appeal the abbot disregarded; that subsequently, whilst the suit was pending, the deanery of Ossory became void and the said Walter was elected dean, but refused to consent to the election unless Adam consented to his having the fruits etc. of the archdeaconry, of which he was still in possession, for two years, on the ground that the fruits etc. of the deanery were due for one year to the last dean, and for the second year to the episcopal mensa; that Adam refused, but consented that after Walter resigned to bishop Patrick his suit and his possession of the archdeaconry, the bishop should ordain whatever he thought fit; that Walter did so resign, and that the said bishop ordained that Adam should give up to Walter the fruits of the first year; that Adam consented, obtained the archdeaconry, and has had possession for about nine months, receiving none of the fruits, they being given up to Walter. The said petition adding that on the said date, 11 Kal. Sept., a suit was by commission of the present pope pending before the above auditor about the said archdeaconry between Maurice Coggeran, [now] precentor (cantor) of Ossory, and Adam Taylor, [now] archdeacon of Kildare (Daren.), and the late Philip Rokelef, William Pirron and William Purcellis, priests, of the dioceses of Limerick, Leighlin, Meath and Lichfield, each of whom claimed it; and that subsequently, while the said suit has been still pending, the said Maurice has obtained the precentorship of Ossory and Adam Taylor the archdeaconry of Kildare, both by authority of the ordinary, whilst the said Rokelef, Pirron and Purcellis have died, the pope hereby commits to the above auditor the appeal from the said abbot and the cause itself, and orders him to surrogate Adam to whatever right was possessed by each of the said Walter, Maurice, Taylor, Rokelef, Pirron and Purcellis etc., and if he find that neither Adam himself nor any of the others had any right, to collate and assign to Adam the archdeaconry itself, a non-major dignity with cure, value not exceeding 70 marks, whether it became void as above, or by the free resignation of Nicholas Haket, [now] treasurer of Cashel, or otherwise; notwithstanding that the pope has lately granted him provision of the canonry and prebend of Newcastle, Lyons (de Nouocastro de Lyonis) in Dublin and the rectory of Kylneygh in the diocese of Ferns, the former of which grants he has resigned at the apostolic see. He is hereby dispensed to hold the archdeaconry, upon obtaining possession of which under these presents, the said grant in respect of the said rectory shall be null. Vite etc. (*Ja. xxxiii. (f. 176.)

To Master John de Opiczis, papal chaplain and auditor. Mandate as below, at the recent petition of Nicholas Tunnok, canon of Ross, M.A. of Paris, priest, containing that a cause arose between the late Alexander Barberii, priest, and Thomas de Grenlaw, canon of Dunkeld, about the archdeaconry of Caithness, upon the voidance of which and its annexed canonry and prebend (because Alexander, [now] bishop of Caithness, sometime elect of Orkney, after receiving provision of Orkney from Benedict XIII did not have himself consecrated within the canonical time) the said Barberii claimed that he had received papal provision, Thomas claiming that the archdeaconry belonged to him; that the cause, although not lawfully devolved to the Roman court, was committed by the present pope, at the instance of Thomas, to the above auditor, and that whilst the suit has been pending before him Barberii has died. The pope orders the auditor to surrogate Nicholas to Barberii's right, if any, and moreover to collate and assign to him the archdeaconry itself, an office with cure, value with its said annexes not exceeding 40 marks sterling; notwithstanding that he holds a canonry and prebend of Ross and the parish church of Furvi in the diocese of Aberdeen, value not exceeding 12 and 16 marks respectively, and that the pope lately granted him provision of canonries with expectation of prebends of Aberdeen and Moray. He is hereby dispensed to hold the said church for seven years with the said archdeaconry, after which he is to resign the church. Litterarum etc. (*Franciscus. xxx. Sexto Kal. The pope orders the above bishop to summon the said John (fearing whose power the said Andrew cannot safely meet him within the city and diocese of Meath) and others concerned, and if Andrew will accuse him, to inform himself, and if he find the above to be true, to decree the said collation and provision null, and in that event to remove the said John and any other, and to collate and assign the said church, value not exceeding 46 marks, to Andrew, who lately received papal dispensation, alleging himself to be the son of a priest and an unmarried woman related in the double fourth and double third degrees of affinity, to be promoted etc., as above, f. 72, under pretext of which dispensation he has, although the said priest and woman are in reality related in the second and third degrees of affinity, had himself promoted to all minor orders. A penance is to be enjoined for the incest, and offspring, past and future, is to be decreed legitimate. Oblate nobis.

To the same. The like, in the case of John Stokker and Joan, daughter of William Blymyll, of the same diocese, who formerly contracted marriage as above, in ignorance that they were related in the third degree of affinity, because the late Agnes, John's first wife, and Joan were related in the third degree of kindred. Oblate nobis.

4 Id. Oct.
S. Maria Maggiore.
Rome.
(f. 132d.)

To John Bloduell', canon of St. Asaph, B.C.L. Grant etc., as below. The late Baldassar, bishop of Tusculum, called John XXIII, dispensed him—who was then holding the parish church of Whiteparish (Albi monasterii) in the diocese of Salisbury, and to whom provision had previously been made by papal authority of the parish church of Saltewode in the diocese of Canterbury, possession of which he had not got—to receive, without prejudice to his right in respect of Saltewode, one other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, even if a parish church etc., and to hold it for life with either Whiteparish or Saltewode, and to resign both, [simply or for exchange], and hold instead two incompatible benefices [Cal. Lett. VI, p. 415]. After this dispensation he obtained by canonical collation the parish church of Tadmerton in the diocese of Lincoln, having resigned Whiteparish, and subsequently, on the voidance of the parish church of Northope alias Llaneurgaen in the diocese of St. Asaph, by the death of Hugh Holbach at and during the voidance of the apostolic see, Robert, bishop of St. Asaph, perhaps in ignorance that Northope had before Hugh's death been reserved, made collation and provision of it by his ordinary authority to the said John. Later, after he, perhaps equally ignorant, had obtained possession of Northope and had held it for some time with Tadmerton, the parish church of Stretton in the Clay in the diocese of York became void by the death of Robert Apilton, also at the apostolic see, and archbishop Henry, perhaps in ignorance that before Robert's death it had been reserved, made collation and provision of it to John who, perhaps equally ignorant, obtained possession of it, having previously resigned Tadmerton, so that he held together, as he still does, by virtue of the said dispensation, Northope and Stretton. The pope therefore grants motu proprio that the said collations and provisions of Northope and Stretton shall hold good from their respective dates, as if there had been no such papal reservation, and hereby confirms them. He further dispenses John to hold the said two churches together for life, and to resign them, simply or for exchange. Litterarum etc. (Ja. 1. Sextodecimo Kal. Nouembris Anno Quinto. de Cerretanis.)

To Walter Medefordi, dean of Wells. Confirmation to him, whom the present pope deputed as collector to the camera in England [on 5 Dec. 1417, above, p. 1], of the dispensation which Peter, bishop of Dax, legate (rectius nuncio) to England and other parts, granted him, in virtue of a faculty conferred by Boniface IX, to hold for life two incompatible benefices, and exchange them, as often as he pleased, for exchange or simply; notwithstanding that the said faculty extended to twenty persons only, and that the said dispensation does not mention the said number nor indicate in what order Walter stood therein, on account of which omission he has feared to be molested in respect of such incompatible benefices. Vite etc.

18 Kal. Oct.
Tivoli.

To Master John Ixworth, archdeacon of Worcester, D.C.L., papal referendary. Prolongation, as below. The pope lately ordered, motu proprio, provision to be made to him (then inter alia holding by papal grant and dispensation the above archdeaconry, which is a dignity with cure, and the parish church of Pulham in the diocese of Norwich) of the parish church of Boston in the diocese of Lincoln, about to become void. After this the pope dispensed him to hold together for one year Boston, Pulham and the said archdeaconry, even if it were a major dignity, and, resigning one of them meanwhile for exchange or simply, to retain the other two for life, and to resign such two, as often as he thought good, likewise for exchange or simply. Subsequently the pope prolonged the said year (John having meanwhile obtained possession of Boston) by a second year and again by a third, the end of which, as the pope has learned, is at hand. He therefore motu proprio prolongs the said period by a fourth year. The value of Boston does not exceed 300 marks, and that of Pulham and the said archdeaconry together does not exceed 150. Grata tue deuotionis.

To John, bishop of Annadown. Dispensation, seeing that on account of wars and other calamities he has been for many years and is unable to get anything from his episcopal mensa, and for the same reasons is unable even to reside in his church, to hold therewith, in order to maintain himself, as long as the said wars etc. last, one or two benefices, secular or regular, even if such one or one of such two have cure, etc., and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleases. Personam tuam.

6 Id. Oct.
S. Maria Maggiore,
Rome.
(f. 193.)

To Master John Ixworth, canon of Lincoln, D.C.L., papal referendary. Grant, as below. Lately the pope ordered provision to be made to him of the canonry and prebend of Bykleswade in Lincoln, on their expected voidance by the promotion, which had been made by the pope [above, p. 133], of Philip [Morgan], bishop, then elect, of Worcester, and by his approaching consecration. Subsequently, Philip [Repington], bishop, formerly of Lincoln, resigned that see by his proctor Robert, bishop of Elphin, at the apostolic see, to Branda, cardinal priest of St. Clement's, who by the pope's verbal order admitted the resignation, the said Philip, formerly bishop of Lincoln, being in England (in partibus illis), and being ignorant of the time of the said resignation, and therefore continuing to administer his see after the said resignation had been made, and until it came to his knowledge. The pope has by other letters ratified and as far as needful has confirmed the bishop's acts during the said temporary administration. Seeing that during the said interval the above canonry and prebend became void by the said promotion and the taking place by the pope's order of the said consecration of the above Philip [Morgan], bishop, then elect, the said Philip [Repington], sometime bishop of Lincoln, being still ignorant of the said resignation, made collation and provision of them by his ordinary authority to John, saving any papal reservations or mandate of the pope; and seeing that the said John desires for certain reasons [not given] to make use of the said bishop's collation and provision rather than of the pope's said mandate, without however surrendering the latter, but doubts whether the said collation and provision, under which he had obtained possession, hold good, the pope grants, motu proprio, that the said collation and provision shall hold good from the date thereof, any papal reservation notwithstanding. Gratu deuocionis obsequia. (Ja. xx. Undecimo Kal. Januarii Anno Sexto. de Cerretanis.)

To William Felter, rector of St. Werburgh's, Bristoll, in the diocese of Worcester, doctor of canon law. Dispensation to him, who is M.A. and B.C.L., to hold for ten years together with the above church, value not exceeding 50 marks, any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, even if another parish church etc., and to resign both, simply or for exchange. Litterarum etc. [There are five verbal corrections in the margin, and the note: Correcta de mandato domini B. de Montepoliciano, sed propter eius nimiam correcturam cassata et alibi registrata, Ja. de Cerretanis. The letter is subscribed, after the date, as usual, Franciscus. xxv. de Agello.]

Upon its being lately set forth to the pope on behalf of John Ycearnaig, [now] dean of Tuam, then clerk, of the diocese of Tuam, that the deanery of Tuam, a major dignity, had become and was void because William Rany, who held it, had obtained without canonical title, and had held therewith for several years, the deanery of Mayo, also a dignity, the pope ordered the abbots of St. Mary's, Cong (de Cunga), St. Michael's, Mayo and Ballintober (Ville fontis Sancti Patricii) in the said diocese, to summon William and others concerned, and if they found that the said deanery of Tuam was void as above or in any other way, to collate and assign it to the said John. St. Peter's, Rome.
(f. 66d.)

To John McGillavanem, priest, of the diocese of Ardagh. Rehabilitation on account of the following. The pope lately [above, p. 89] ordered provision to be made to him of the deanery of Ardagh, which was to become void by the promotion, made by the pope, and by the then approaching consecration, of Cornelius, [now] bishop, then elect, of Ardagh. John's petition, set forth [to-day, as on f. 67] to the pope, contained that between him and the said bishop, then elect, a dispute had arisen in respect of a certain sum belonging to the said bishop, then elect, and unduly laid out in the Roman court, at John's instance, by the said bishop's proctor Nemias Mackegean, priest, of the diocese of Ardagh (occasione certe pecuniarum summe ad eundem episcopum tunc electum spectantis et per dilectum filium N.M. presbiterum Ardakadensis diocesis ipsius episcopi tunc electi procuratorem in curia Romana te instante minus debite exposite), and that the bishop endeavoured to prevent provision of the deanery being made to John on its becoming void; that to buy off the bishop's opposition, as well as that of Richard Offergayll, priest, of the said diocese (to whom provision of the deanery had also been granted by papal authority), he promised them money; and that upon the deanery becoming void by the said promotion and by the consecration of Cornelius, John obtained possession thereof by virtue of his said provision, and still holds it. John, who has studied canon and civil law for more than twelve years at Oxford and in studia particularia, is to resign the deanery. *Sedes apostolica, pia mater. (Ja. To the bishops of Alet, Frigento and Kilmore. Mandate, recapitulating the preceding, to collate and assign to the above John, after he has resigned, the above deanery, a major elective dignity with cure, value not exceeding 40 marks, still void by the above promotion and consecration; whether it became void as stated, or by the resignation of the above Richard. *Vite etc. (Ja. To William Paynell, rector of Aston in the diocese of York, licentiate of civil law. Validation from the present date of the dispensation which the pope lately granted to him, being of noble birth, licentiate of civil law by examination, and holding the parish church of Warsope in the said diocese, to hold therewith for life any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, and to resign both, as often as he pleased, simply or for exchange [above, p. 224]; notwithstanding that before the date of the said dispensation he had resigned Warsope and obtained Aston, value not exceeding 40 marks. *Nobilitas generis, litterarum etc. (Franciscus. xx. (f. 81d.)

To Walter Medford, dean of Wells. Absolution etc., as below. His recent petition contained that on the voidance of the deanery, before the chapter proceeded to election he, as a canon and prebendary of Wells, took an oath, of which exemplification is given, that if elected dean he would keep continual and personal residence in accordance with the statutes, notwithstanding any dispensations etc. past or future, and that in the event of his not keeping personal residence he would pay 100*l.* a year from the fruits of the deanery, to be applied by the chapter to the burdens of the cathedral church; that after he had been duly elected and confirmed, in obtaining possession of the deanery he repeated the said oath, and also swore to observe all the statutes, especially those requiring personal residence and forbidding the impetration of papal letters to the contrary, and the use of such letters even if impetrated by others, etc.; and that after having obtained the deanery he, who was then collector of fruits etc. due to the papal camera in England, and was in the service of Henry, bishop of Winchester, for these and for divers other reasons absented himself more than once, taking the whole of the fruits of the deanery, and not paying the said sum, so that he fears he has become guilty of perjury. In consideration of his services as collector and his other merits, the pope absolves him from whatever guilt of perjury he has contracted, rehabilitates him, remits and gives him the said sum which his oath bound him to give to the said church, and relaxes his said oath for a period of five years from the present date, during which he may as often as he pleases absent himself from the church of Wells for his own business or that of any others, or when engaged in the service of the said bishop or any other, even a temporal lord, or residing in one of his benefices, taking the full revenues of his deanery and not paying the above sum. Affectu benivolencie specialis.

(f. 83.)

To the bishop of Winchester. Mandate as below. The pope recapitulates Boniface IX's motu proprio abolition of the custom of the church of Wells by which each new canon prebendary on beginning residence was bound to entertain the bishop, dean, canons, etc., at a cost sometimes amounting to 150 or 200 marks, and the same pope's statute and ordinance whereby in future each canon holding a simple prebend or a prebend and dignity should pay to the dean and chapter, towards the fabric and the burdens of the chapter and church, 100 and 150 marks respectively [Cal. Lett. V, p. 400]. At the recent petition of the said dean and chapter (containing that they have observed the said statute since it came to their knowledge, have received from canons coming into residence the said sum, and have shared it, one part for the fabric, and the other for the dean or president and canons residentiary, towards their food and clothing and other burdens; and adding that they fear lest they may be molested on the ground that, in thus sharing the said second part amongst themselves, they have misinterpreted the said statute and not acted according to its spirit), the pope orders the above bishop, if he find the facts to be as stated, and the said sharing to be to the evident utility and honour of the said church, to declare that it has and shall in future be lawful for the said dean and chapter to share the said sum, and moreover to approve and confirm the said statute and the consequences thereof. Ad ea nos obligat.

To the bishop of London. Mandate as below. The late Thomas, duke of Gloucester, set forth to Boniface IX that with licence of the late Robert, bishop of London, he had removed the church of the town (villa) of Plecy, then parochial and of his patronage, from its ancient site to another place in the said town, on ground of his own, and had founded and built it anew in honour of the Holy Trinity, and obtained its erection by the said bishop into a collegiate church for a master or warden having cure of souls of the parishioners and of the inmates of the church, eight priests and four clerks, had augmented its endowment and made statutes, confirmation of all which he petitioned the said pope to grant, as well as power to interpret and amend etc. the said statutes as often as he should think good. Pope Boniface ordered the abbots of Westminster and Waltham to carry out the duke's request. The recent petition of the said master or warden, priests and clerks, contained that the late William, abbot of Waltham, proceeding alone, confirmed the said foundation, erection, augmentation and statutes, and granted the duke power to interpret etc. as above, and that the duke in virtue thereof changed some of the statutes and annulled others, but that on account of his death the changes were not otherwise confirmed. The said petition added that some of the statutes, during the duke's lifetime and with his knowledge, were not observed, that the said master etc. cannot be supported out of the slender fruits etc. of the said church and bear their other burdens, and that they cannot observe the said statutes because they are too severe. The pope therefore orders the above bishop, if he find the said statutes or some of them to be too severe, to reform them, and to order them, thus reformed, to be perpetually observed. Sacrosante Romane ecclesie.

To Edward Lawedree, archdeacon of Lothian (Loudonic) in St. Andrews, M.A. Grant as below. His recent petition contained that he was dispensed by Peter de Luna, called Benedict XIII, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all orders and hold a benefice even with cure, afterwards to hold therewith two other benefices, and subsequently to hold any mutually compatible benefices of any number and kind, with and without cure, even if canonries and prebends, dignities etc., and to resign them, for exchange or otherwise, as often as he pleased, by virtue of which dispensations, having been so promoted, he obtained the parish churches of Suthak and Gogar, the perpetual vicarage of Old Roxburgh (de Veteri Roxburg) in the dioceses of Glasgow and St. Andrews, and the archdeaconry of Teviotdale (Therydalie) in Glasgow, a non-major dignity with cure; that, having resigned Gogar and the said vicarage and archdeaconry, the present pope dispensed him to hold for five years Suthak and the archdeaconry of Lothian ([L] Audonic) in St. Andrews, a non-major non-elective dignity with cure (provision of which, previously reserved, the pope made to him on its becoming void) and at the same time dispensed him to resign both of them, and hold two incompatible benefices, not being two major or principal dignities etc., subsequently extending the said period of five years to the pleasure of the apostolic see. At his said petition, praying for ratification of the said dispensations of Benedict XIII, the validity of which he doubts because they were expedited under the seal of the regent of the penitentiaria at his court, the pope grants to him—who, having resigned Suthak, is litigating in the papal palace about the said archdeaconry of Lothian, to which a canonry and prebend of St. Andrews are annexed; to whom the pope has lately ordered provision to be made of the provostship of the parish church, then to be erected into a collegiate church, of St. Giles, Edinburgh [above, pp. 136 and 137], which provostship after such erection will be a principal dignity with cure, and of canonries of Glasgow and Dunkeld with reservation of as many prebends and of a dignity etc. of one of those churches, and has granted him provision of the perpetual vicarage without cure of Caral in the diocese of St. Andrews, the value of all which does not exceed 200*l.* of old sterlings—that the said letters of Benedict XIII shall hold good from the date thereof, as if they had been lawfully expedited under his leaden bull, and that these presents shall suffice as proof thereof. To the bishop of Alet, the archdeacon of Killala, and Charles Ogara, canon of Elphin. Mandate to collate and assign to Cornelius Macsearraith, clerk, of the diocese of Achonry (whom the pope has this day [above, p. 261] ordered to be dispensed on account of a certain spot in his left eye, if not such as to provoke scandal, to hold the below named rectory and any other benefices, and to be promoted to all, even holy orders), after he has been so dispensed, the rectory, with cure, of Offhicari and Beannfada in the said diocese, of the patronage of laymen, which has no defined (certam) church, value not exceeding 16 marks, so long void, by the death of Thady Omiagaid, that its collation has by the Lateran statutes lapsed to the apostolic see; notwithstanding that the pope lately granted provision to Cornelius of the Augustinian monastery of St. Mary, Assdara, in the said diocese, in the event of the deprivation of abbot John, which grant shall be null upon his obtaining the said rectory. Vite etc. (*Ja. xxvi. At his recent petition (containing that at the time of the said last letters he held, as he still does, the parish church of Clyfton Canvile in the diocese of Lichfield, and the canonries and prebends of Heyworthe in Salisbury, Sutton in Chichester, a canonry and prebend in the church of Mallyng in the diocese of Chichester, and the deanery of St. Martin's-le-Grand, London, which is a principal dignity and is a free benefice, value not exceeding 150, 120, 83, 15 and 300 marks respectively, and that he fears lest the said letters may be held surreptitious, because they did not mention the said benefices) the pope grants to him (who is treasurer of king Henry, and still holds the above perpetual benefice, called a portion, in St. Teath's, the canonry and prebend of Barton in Wells, and a canonry and prebend of Exeter, value not exceeding 20, 20 and 6 marks respectively) that the said letters shall hold good from the date thereof, as if they contained mention of the said parish church, deanery and canonries and prebends, and their values. *Litterarum etc. (Ja. xxxvi. To the warden, canons and ministers of the church of St. Mary, Otery, in the diocese of Exeter. Licence as below. Their recent petition contained that in accordance with their statutes, put forth by the late John, bishop of Exeter and long observed [see Oliver, Monasticon dioc. Exoniensis, p. 268], the warden, canons and other ministers have to sing matins from the feast of the Exaltation of Holy Cross until Holy Thursday at about midnight, during the three days immediately preceding the feast of Easter in the afternoon (de sero), and on the morrow of the said feast of Easter and until the said feast of Holy Cross, with certain exceptions, at about sunrise; and added that the capitular mensa has been so much impoverished that for the salary which the ministers and servitors now receive they refuse to be present at midnight matins as they used to be, and that furthermore the inhabitants would go to matins if they were sung at sunrise or other convenient hour. At their said petition and that of the said inhabitants the pope grants licence that in future they may have matins on the feast of the Exaltation of Holy Cross until Holy Thursday at about the fourth hour after midnight, as they have been wont to do from the morrow of the feast of Easter to the said feast of Holy Cross. Sincere deuocionis affectus.

To the bishop of Norwich. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Thomas Coue, master or warden of the chantry of Holy Cross in the parish church of Attilburgh in the diocese of Norwich, contained that formerly the late Robert le Mortymer, donsel, proposed to found for the welfare of the souls of himself and the late Margery his wife and his progenitors a certain chantry in the above church for three chaplains, one of them being called master or warden, but died before carrying out his intent, appointing in his will executors for the purpose, one of whom was the late Simon Howisson, rector of Schulton in the said diocese; that Simon, his co-executors being dead, in the hope that the patronage of the parish church of Elyngnam Magna in the said diocese would be given by its patron for purpose of appropriation to the said chantry, instituted and endowed to the honour of God and out of reverence for the Exaltation of Holy Cross a chantry in the said church of Attilburgh for five chaplains, one of them to be called master or warden, at the same time drawing up statutes for revision by the ordinary. Subsequently, upon the said patronage being given to the chantry, and the above Simon and the late Robert Syred, master or warden, setting forth to the late John XXIII that the fruits etc. of the chantry, value not exceeding 15 marks, were insufficient, the said John XXIII appropriated thereto [Cal. Lett. VI, p. 296] the said church of Elyngnam Magna, value not exceeding 45 marks, by virtue of which gift and appropriation the master and chaplains took possession of the said church and still hold it. At the above petition, the pope hereby orders the bishop, if he find the facts to be as stated, to confirm the said institution, endowment, statutes and appropriation, and in the event of his doing so, grants him faculty to interpret, declare, reform and correct the said statutes. Humilibus supplicum votis. [*See Monasticon. To Thomas Beckyngton, dean of St. Mary's Arches, London, D.C.L. Confirmation and grant, as below. His recent petition contained that he, who has been long and is still a canon of Gnowsale in the diocese of Coventry and Lichfield, holding the prebend of Morehalle therein, and dean of St. Mary's Arches, has in virtue of the said canonry and prebend and the deanery been for some time deputed sub-conservator of rights and privileges granted by the apostolic see to the prior and brethren of the hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, and as such has proceeded to divers lawful acts on their behalf, in the belief that he could duly do so. At his said petition, which added that it may, to the great prejudice of many, especially of the said prior and brethren, be called in doubt by some persons whether on the ground of the said canonry and prebend and deanery he seems to hold a dignity or a personatus in a cathedral or collegiate church, the pope confirms all his proceedings as sub-conservator, and grants that as long as he remains a canon or dean of the said churches he may perform all that belongs to the said office of [sub-]conservator. Sincere deuocionis affectus.

To the archbishop of Canterbury. Mandate, as below. Lately, on its being set forth to the pope by Ralph Webbe, perpetual vicar of St. Martin's in the Fields (in Campis) near Charryngerosse (sic) in the diocese of London, that formerly the master and brethren of the Augustinian chapel or hospital of St. Mary Rouncevall (Roncideuallis) by Charryngerosse (sic), under pretext of letters of Boniface IX were holding unlawful possession of divers tithes, oblations and other parochial rights belonging to the said vicar, that the archbishop was holding under arrest as suspect of forgery the said and certain other alleged papal letters, the pope ordered the archbishop, at Ralph's petition, if it should be evident to him that the said letters were forged, to send them to the papal chancery for examination, summon the said master and brethren to appear before the pope, and to sequester the said tithes etc. until he should be informed by the pope as to the genuineness or otherwise of the said letters [above, p. 238]. Afterwards the archbishop, in execution of the pope's letters, sent to the papal chancery for examination, letters suspected of having been forged under the names of Boniface IX, Urban VI, Clement VI and Urban V, and other letters forged under other names, and the said master and brethren, summoned to appear before the archbishop, have been contumacious. The said letters having been examined in the chancery and found to be forged, the pope orders the archbishop to summon the said master and brethren and others concerned, and to cause the said letters, which the pope sends back herewith, to be publicly denounced as forgeries and burned, to punish the forgers and those who wittingly made use of the said letters, and to cause the said tithes etc. to be restored to the said vicar and his successors. Further, the letters of Innocent VI, which the pope is sending back with the said other letters, the archbishop is to keep in his court, and is to inhibit the said master and brethren from using them or copies thereof until they have proved that they are genuine, and have received leave from the apostolic see to use them. Ad falsariorum iniquitatem.

To the bishop of Worcester. Mandate, as below. The recent petition of John Dalberd, warden of the parish church of Tormerton in the diocese of Worcester, contained that the late John de la River, knight, gave divers fruits etc. for five chaplains in the said church, one called warden, ordaining that the warden should pay to each chaplain as yearly salary 24s., and provide them with food and lodging, and that on his resignation or death, the warden should leave to his successor a certain quantity of oxen, horses and other goods to the value of 20l. or the equivalent in ready money, and that the said warden and chaplains should daily sing and celebrate in the said church masses and other divine offices, and reside there; that subsequently Stephen Hadfeld and Maurice de la River, laymen, and Isabel le Scrop, of the said diocese, to whom the patronage had come after the death of the said knight, seeing that chaplains could no longer be easily had for the said salary, modified the said ordinance thus:—The said warden John should be bound to keep three chaplains only, and the said chaplains, considering their fewness, should no longer be bound to perform matins and mass with music, but could do so even without music, provided that they celebrated two masses a day one of them being a Requiem, and the said warden John, who had not received from his predecessor the above quantity or money, should not be bound to keep personal residence nor to leave to his successor such quantity or money equivalent. To Thomas Morw, Cluniac abbot of Paisley (de Pasleto) in the diocese of Glasgow. Confirmation etc. as below. Lately, on the voidance of Paisley, value not exceeding 1,000 marks of old sterlings, by the death of John, Peter de Luna, called Benedict XIII, made provision thereof, previously reserved by him, to Roland, then Cluniac abbot of Corscraguier in the said diocese. Subsequently, on the voidance of the said abbey because Roland, without having had possession, resigned all right to the late Finlay, bishop of Dunblane, the said bishop, under mandate, as he asserted, of the said Peter, and during the Council of Constance, admitted the resignation and made provision to John de Lichev, monk of Paisley. Afterwards, during the obedience of the said Peter and during the said Council, Robert, abbot of Cluny, in accordance with the institutes of the order and ancient custom, and after the accession of the present pope in the said Council, made provision of Paisley, immediately dependent on Cluny, as being still void as above, to the above Thomas Morw, then a monk of Paisley, in priest's orders, bachelor of canon law, who has had himself blessed and has obtained possession, subsequently causing all the aforesaid to be set forth before the pope and asking for confirmation. The pope therefore confirms the said provision by the above abbot, setting aside those made by Peter de Luna and the above bishop, and himself makes provision to him by these presents. Summi dispositione. [See above, p. 141.]

To the abbots of Balmurinach and Scone in the diocese of St. Andrews, and the official of St. Andrews. (f. 288*a*.)

To the prior of St. Peter's, Newtown (de Noravilla) by Trym, in the diocese of Meath. Mandate, as below. The recent petition of the Augustinian abbot and convent of St. Mary's, Trym, contained that Edmund de Mortuomari, earl of March and Ulster and lord of the lordship of Clare, Trym and Connaught (Connascie), granted to them in frank almoin, with consent of the late Henry, king of England and lord of Ireland, the patronage of the church, manor and town of Kyldalk in the said diocese, so that they might cause the said church to be appropriated to them, which was done by bishop Edward, the values of the said church and monastery not exceeding 40 and 60 marks respectively, by virtue of which appropriation they have taken possession and held it for some time. At the said petition the pope orders the above prior, if he find the preceding to be true, to confirm the said appropriation, and to grant that the abbot and convent may cause the said church to be served by one of their canons or by a secular priest appointed and removed at the pleasure of the abbot. Sincere devocionis. [See above, p. 194.]

To the bishop of Alet, Dermot Ofathyd, canon of Clonfert, and the official of Killaloe. Mandate to collate and assign to John Odubgilla, priest, perpetual vicar of Kylenayn in the diocese of Kilmacduagh, the still void canonry and prebend of Croscurnayn in Kilmacduagh, value not exceeding 2 marks of silver, collation and provision of which he received from the late Maurice, archbishop of Tuam, having been so long void by the death of James Cachir that by the Lateran statutes its collation had lapsed to the metropolitan. He doubts whether the said collation and provision hold good. The new collation is to be made notwithstanding that he holds the said vicarage, and that the pope has recently [above, pp. 266, 267] ordered provision to be made to him of the perpetual vicarage of Ardrachayn, of which he has not got possession, value not exceeding 3 and 7 marks of silver respectively. Vite etc. (Ja. xxii. He doubts, as in the preceding. The collation is to be made whether the vicarage became void as above, or by the resignation of the said Thomas, or otherwise, and notwithstanding that George holds a certain yearly pension, reserved to him by papal authority, of 24 marks sterling from the fruits etc. of the archdeaconry of Lothian in St. Andrews, and that the pope lately granted him provision of a canonry with reservation of a prebend and of a non-major dignity etc. of Glasgow, and of a benefice with or without cure, wont to be assigned to secular clerks, in the gift of the Benedictine abbot and convent of Dunfermlyn in the said diocese. To Master William Maligeneri, papal chaplain and auditor. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Robert Stewart, rector of Torbolton in the diocese of Glasgow, bachelor of canon law, of noble birth, contained that formerly John Busby, priest, and the late John Erskine exchanged the parish church of Eglischoone, in the said diocese, and the chancellorship of Glasgow, the exchange being carried out by bishop William; that the cause which arose between Busby and John Wer, clerk, of the said diocese, about the said chancellorship, was committed by the present pope, although not by its nature lawfully devolved to the apostolic see, to Master Geminianus de Prato, at Wer's instance, and then to Master Hartung de Capell, papal chaplains and auditors, the latter of whom gave a definitive sentence in favour of Busby, Wer's appeal from which to the apostolic see the pope committed to the above Master William. Seeing that, as the pope has learned, Busby is so old and feeble that, the cause being before the said William, he proposes to give up the suit and all right in or to the chancellorship, the pope orders the said auditor to receive Busby's resignation and to surrogate the above Robert Stewart to his said right, and moreover to collate and assign to him the chancellorship itself, a non-major non-elective dignity with cure, to which a canonry and prebend are annexed, value altogether not exceeding 60*l.* of old sterlings, and to reserve to Busby a reasonable pension for life, to be paid by the said Robert and his successors; notwithstanding that the said Robert (who was lately dispensed by Peter de Luna, called Benedict XIII, to hold for three years, with the perpetual vicarage of Dunlop in the said diocese, one other incompatible benefice, with or without cure, which period of three years was prolonged by the said Peter, after Robert had obtained Torbolton and was litigating about it, by two and subsequently by five years, the latter period being prolonged by the present pope to the term of Robert's life; and has been dispensed by the present pope to resign Torbolton and the said vicarage, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleases, and hold instead two other incompatible benefices for life [above, p. 210]) holds the said vicarage and the said rectory, which is of the patronage of laymen, of Torbolton, value together not exceeding 50*l.* of old sterlings. He is hereby dispensed to hold the said chancellorship for seven years together with Torbolton and the said vicarage, on condition that he meanwhile exchange one of the three for a benefice compatible with the remaining two: if not, he is thereafter to resign the said vicarage. Nobilitas generis, litterarum etc. (Ja. xxvi. (f. 208.)

To the bishop of Alet, the abbot of Saint-Pierre-de-l'Île (de Insula) in the diocese of Bordeaux, and the archdeacon of Blaye (Blauien.) in Bordeaux. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Elias Ruffelli, clerk, of the diocese of Saintes, B.A., contained that he and Richard Peteworth exchanged one (sic) chaplaincy in the cathedral (maiori) church and the parish church of Sainte-Eulalie, Bordeaux, another in the church of Saint-Médard-en-Jalle (in Jalesio), and another in the church of St. Emilion, de Saint-Emilion, in the diocese of Bordeaux, of the one part, and a canonry and prebend in the cathedral (maiori) church of Bordeaux, of the other part, the exchange being carried out by archbishop David. The said petition added that Elias doubts whether the collation and provision of the said canonry and prebend made to him by archbishop David hold good because Poggio (Pogius) Gucci, clerk, of the diocese of Arezzo (Arethin.), writer and abbreviator of papal letters, to whom provision of the same was lately made by papal authority, as void by the death of Arnald [son] of William de Marina, has ceded them and all right thereto, without having had possession, to the said archbishop, and for certain other reasons. Seeing that, as the pope has learned, the said canonry and prebend are still void as above he, admitting hereby the said cession, orders the above executors to collate and assign to Elias the said canonry and prebend, value not exceeding 100*l.* petits tournois, howsoever void, and even if reserved, e.g. by the said cession of Poggio; notwithstanding that the pope lately ordered provision to be made to Elias of one or two benefices in the gift of the said archbishop and the deans and chapters of the cathedral (maioris) church of Bordeaux and the church of St. Seurin (Sancti Severini) without the walls of Bordeaux. Vite etc. (*Ja. xx. At his recent petition, containing that he doubts whether the deanery did not become void in some other way than the above, and is not still void, the pope grants to him (who has obtained the deanery under the said provision, and still holds the said church, value not exceeding 16 marks sterling, and to whom the pope lately granted provision of canonries with expectation of prebends of Dunkeld and Moray) that the said letters of provision shall hold good even if the deanery, a major elective dignity with cure, value with its annexes not exceeding 100 marks, be still void as above, or has become void by the death of Richard Militis, who died on his way from the Roman court within two days' journey therefrom, or be void in any other way. Litterarum etc. (Ja. xviii. DE DIVERSIS FORMIS.†

15 Kal. Dec. To John Burton, rector of Brompton in Pykeryngli, in the S. Maria Maggiore, diocese of York. Dispensation to him, who is treasurer of Rome. Henry, bishop of Winchester, to hold for seven years together
(f. 145d.) with the said church, value not exceeding 80 marks, one other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible. During the said period he is to exchange one or other for a compatible benefice :
if not, he is to resign the said church. *Vite etc. (Ja. xxvi.
Quinto Id. Octobris Anno Decimo. de Cerretanis.)*

* The number of the Liber is not indicated.

† ff. i-ccxliii are headed de regularibus, and almost all concern France. The rubric de diversis formis begins on f. ccxv.

4 Kal. Oct.
S. Maria Maggiore,
Rome.
(f. 184d.)

To the official of Glasgow. Mandate as below. Lately [above, p. 67] the pope at the petition of William Croyser, canon of Dunkeld (setting forth that on account of the border wars the union, if such existed, of the parish church of Kyrkgonzan in the diocese of Glasgow to the Cistercian monastery of Holme in the diocese of Carlisle was likely to be of small profit to the said monastery), granted the said church in commendam, until a lasting peace should be made, to the said William, who already held it in commendam under a grant by the late Peter de Luna, called Benedict XIII. At the recent petition of Patrick Leche, clerk, of the diocese of Glasgow, M.A. (containing that in hope of such peace a seven years' truce has been made; that on account of the commends, which have gone on for about forty years, it will be difficult for the said union, if it exists, to take effect; that the said church has been so long void that there is no certain knowledge of the mode of voidance; that the said William is opulently beneficed to the extent of 160 marks sterling a year, and will be prevented by his other benefices with cure and incompatible from exercising the cure of the said church), the pope orders the above official to summon the said William, in the matter of the commendam, and the abbot and convent of Holme, in the matter of the union, and if he find the facts to be as stated, to suppress both the commendam and the alleged union, and to collate and assign to Patrick the said church, value not exceeding 20 marks of old sterlings. Litterarum sciencia, vite etc. (Ja. xxii. St. Peter's. Rome.
(f. 206.)

To Richard Eduardi alias Wodewarde, dean of the church of St. Emilion at Saint-Emilion in the diocese of Bordeaux. Dispensation as below. The late John XXIII made provision to him, then holding the parish church of Pennant Mellanguell in the diocese of St. Asaph, of the deanery of Saint-Emilion, a principal elective dignity with cure, dispensing him to hold both together for five years. The present pope, on learning that the end of the said five years was at hand, dispensed him, who was then still holding both the above, to continue to do so for life, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleased. At his petition, containing that the said dignity has been much impoverished by the long wars, the pope hereby dispenses him (who is a priest and of noble birth, and who now in virtue of the said dispensation holds, having resigned Pennant Mellanguell, the parish church of Lang Stretton in the diocese of Norwich, the value of which and of the said deanery does not exceed 120*l. petits tournois*) to hold in addition for two years any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible. Nobilitas generis, vite etc. (Ja. xxx. Meanwhile, as the recent petition of Andrew de Tyry, monk of Der, contained, the convent,

* In no case does the pope in the present register address his customary letter of recommendation on behalf of a bishop or an abbot elect in France to Henry VI. According to circumstances, he either addresses it to 'Carolus Rex Francie (or Francorum),' or omits the king's name altogether, addressing his letter to the 'Rex Francie (or Francorum).

Collation and provision to him, who is also a papal acolyte, and ambassador to the pope of Archibald, earl of Douglas, of the parish church of Fedressow in the diocese of St. Andrews, value not exceeding 40*l.* of old sterlings, void and therefore reserved by the death at the apostolic see of Nicholas Inglis; notwithstanding that he holds the archdeaconry of Teviotdale in Glasgow, a non-major dignity with cure, the subdeanery of Dunkeld, an office without cure (simplex), canonries and prebends in the same churches [of Glasgow and Dunkeld], and, in commendam, the parish church of Kirkgonzan in the diocese of Glasgow, value altogether not exceeding 120*l.* of old sterlings; that the pope lately ordered provision to be made to him of two benefices with or without cure, even if canonries and prebends and dignities etc., in the common or several gift of the bishops and chapters of St. Andrews and Aberdeen, and dispensed him to hold such two incompatible benefices for life, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, subsequently dispensing him, in the event of his obtaining the perpetual vicarage of the parish church of Enverlithan in the diocese of Glasgow, in virtue of letters [see above, pp. 73, 99] by which the pope had ordered provision to be made to him thereof, to hold it and the above archdeaconry during the pleasure of the apostolic see, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, after which second dispensation he resigned the said vicarage and all right thereto without having had possession. Upon obtaining possession of Fedressow under these presents the above letters of provision of benefices shall be null as far as regards dignities etc. and as regards benefices etc. with cure. Grata familiaritatis. [See also above, pp. 66, 67, 92, 93, 138-140, and below, p. 360.]

To the bishop of Alet, the abbot of Holyrood, Edynburg, and the archdeacon of Lothian in St. Andrews. (f. 231d.)

To the abbots of SS. Peter and Paul's, Clare, and St. Mary's de Petra duacensis, in the dioceses of Killaloe and Kilmacduagh (Duacen.), and the treasurer of Killaloe. Mandate as below. The pope has this day rehabilitated Donatus Odulayg, priest, of the diocese of Killaloe, at his petition containing that formerly, after having had papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure, and after receiving provision, by virtue of certain papal letters [see above, p. 236], of the perpetual vicarage of Killanasuleach in the said diocese, which was said to be void by the death of Matthew Micinuercheny, he, seeing himself hindered from obtaining possession by the then occupant of the vicarage, Donald Machayla, priest, of the same diocese, bargained for Donald's giving up possession and receiving for a prescribed period certain tithes and rents from the vicarage, after which he, under pretext of the said letters and provision, took possession and was still detaining it. Seeing that it is asserted by some that the said vicarage (which by the said letters of rehabilitation the pope has required Donatus to resign) became void, not as above, but by the death in the Roman court of Roderick Yolonyrgayn, the pope orders the above to collate and assign it to Donatus, in whatsoever way it became void. *Vite etc. (Ja. xviii. DE DIVERSIS FORMIS.

3 Id. July.
Gallicano.
(f. 1.)

To William de Foulis, clerk, of the diocese of St. Andrews, M.A. Rehabilitation as below. Lately (on its being set forth to the pope on his behalf that formerly, on the voidance of the perpetual vicarage of Edenburch in the said diocese, by the death of James Leonis, he was presented by the patron, king James, to bishop Henry, who refused to institute him, and that he appealed to the apostolic see) the pope ordered (by letters which have not yet begun to be executed) certain judges to summon the said bishop and others concerned, to hear and decide the appeal and the principal matter, and if they found the said patronage and presentation lawful, to collate and assign to him the vicarage, which the pope dispensed him to hold for two years with his provostship of the church of Bothwile in the diocese of Glasgow, a principal [elective, cf. Reg. CCXLV, f. 216] dignity with cure, requiring him to exchange one or the other for a compatible benefice, and if not, to resign the provostship after the said two years. At the recent petition of the said William, who is chancellor of Archibald, duke of Touraine (containing that before he was presented and instituted to, and before he obtained the said provostship, which is of lay patronage, on its voidance by the death of John de Merton, he obtained and held together for some years the parish churches, also of the patronage of laymen, of Cambuslang and Seton in the dioceses of Glasgow and St. Andrews, and has afterwards, having resigned Cambuslang, held together for some months the said provostship and Seton without dispensation, and still detains them), he is hereby rehabilitated, but is to resign both the provostship and Seton. *Sedes apostolica, pia mater. The late Benedict XIII granted to him in commendam for life and as long as the Cistercian monastery of Holme in the diocese of Carlisle should remain without the said pope's obedience, the parish church of Kyrkgonzan in the diocese of Glasgow, which was said to be united to the said monastery [see above, p. 67]. Afterwards, upon William's setting forth to the present pope that, taking possession, by virtue of the said commenda, of the said church, after the lapse of some years, he had held and was still holding the fruits etc. to his own uses, and that on account of the wars between England and Scotland the said union, if it existed, was likely to be of small profit to the said monastery, the pope granted to him in commendam anew the said church, to be held by him until the said wars should cease and a lasting peace should be made [abore, ibid.]. Subsequently the pope ordered provision to be made to him of a canonry and prebend of Glasgow and the archdeaconry of Teviotdale in that church [abore, p. 93], and prolonged the said commenda for five years from the time of his obtaining the archdeaconry, after the expiry of which period the commenda was to cease. At his recent petition (containing that he has obtained and holds the said canonry and prebend and archdeaconry, and that the end of the said period is at hand; that he holds also a canonry and the prebend of Opney in Dunkeld, value, with that of the said canonry and prebend and archdeaconry, not exceeding 80*l.* sterling, that of the said parish church not exceeding 20*l.* sterling [cf. p. 67]; that the pope lately ordered provision to be made to him of two benefices with or without cure, even if canonries and prebends etc., in the common or several gift of the bishops and chapters of St. Andrews and Aberdeen, dispensing him to hold such two incompatible benefices for life, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, afterwards dispensing him to hold with the above archdeaconry during the pleasure of the apostolic see the perpetual vicarage of Enverlithan in the said diocese, provision of which the pope ordered [see above, pp. 73, 99] to be made him, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, which vicarage and all right thereto he, without having had possession, resigned at the apostolic see to the late Charles, cardinal deacon of St. George's) the pope hereby grants that the said commenda may continue even after the said five years. Litterarum sciencia, rite etc. [See also above, pp. 66, 92, 138-140, 358.]

To Robert Frend', canon of Houeden in the diocese of York. Declaration, as below. It was recently set forth by him to the pope that after he, then a subdeacon, had received indult by authority of the ordinary not to be bound, for a certain number of years, then expressed, whilst studying letters at an university, to be ordained priest on account of his parish church of Waltham in Lyndesay in the diocese of Lincoln, of the patronage of laymen, he, who was then and had for several years been in the service of Thomas, bishop of Durham, continued to be not promoted to the priesthood for more than a year after having obtained peaceable possession of the said church, relying on the common belief (communi . . . reputacioni inherens) of those parts by which the holders of benefices there, even with cure and of the patronage of laymen, are said to be excused from taking orders whilst in the service of the said laymen, the said bishop being chancellor of the late king Henry, patron of the said church in virtue of his duchy of Lancaster; and that John Sadyngton, priest, of the said diocese, on the strength of (innitentes) a lay presentation of himself to the said church, made on account of Robert's said non-promotion, although at the time when the said presentation was made there was, for certain reasons, no ground for it, even if by reason of such non-promotion the church ought to have been deemed to be void, has endeavoured and endeavours to molest Robert in regard to the said church, on account of which Robert has appealed to the apostolic see. The pope hereby declares that Robert, who is a deacon, and holds besides the said church the canonry and prebend of Saltmersshe in Houeden, value not exceeding 52 and 20 marks respectively, could and can lawfully hold the said church, and that it ought not to have been and ought not to be deemed void by the fact that he has not yet been ordained priest, the reason of his non-promotion having been, not malice, but simplicity and the said indult and common belief (illa communis assercio siue reputacio). Merentur tibi suffragantia.

7 MARTIN V.

Declaration etc. as below. Lately, on the occasion of the provision to the see of Bayeux of Nicholas [Habart] the pope, seeing that John du Houme, dean of Bayeux, licentiate of civil law by examination and bachelor of canon law, who had been elected bishop by the chapter, had undergone great expense in seeking confirmation of his election, and that the late king Henry had petitioned the pope on behalf of his provision, reserved and ordered to be collated and assigned to John the canonries and prebends of Coutances and Cambrai which bishop Nicholas was holding at the time of his said provision, and which were to become void by his consecration, it being expressed in the pope's letters that the fruits etc. of the said canonries and prebends did not exceed 50*l.* of petits tournois. Seeing that, as the pope has recently learned, a number of others, who pretend that the said fruits etc. exceed the above value, are said to have obtained from the pope, after John's said grant, divers grants of the same canonries and prebends, even void or to become void in the aforesaid way, on the ground of which they are endeavouring to exclude John from the said grant and from the said canonries and prebends, which he holds by virtue of the pope's said grant, and are trying to molest him, having cited him in the apostolic palace, the pope, motu proprio, calls up to himself all such suits instituted within or without the Roman court, and extinguishes them, declares that his intention was and is for John to have provision of the said canonries and prebends, whatsoever their value might be, and annuls all grants concerning them made to John's prejudice. *Ad fut. rei mem. * By giving in the above letter, dated 12 July, 1425, the title of archbishop of York to John Kempe, the pope apparently anticipates Kempe's translation from London, which did not take place until July 20. Eubel, Hierarchia, under 'Eboracen.', gives the date as July 30, and refers to Arm. XII, tom 121 (now 121A), p. 190. A summary list of provisions and translations is there given, all under date 1425, die Veneris xiii Kal. Augusti, namely of the sees of Orense and Tuy in Spain. Sodor, Noyon, Lincoln, York, London, Norwich and Chichester. In the case of Orense, Tuy and Noyon, for which he found the bulls in extenso in the Lateran Registers, Eubel has the correct date. July 20, and does not refer to Arm. XII, tom 121. In the case of Sodor, Lincoln, York, London and Norwich he refers only to Arm. XII, tom 121, and in each case gives an incorrect date, July 30. The entry in regard to York is: Eadem die Joannes episcopus Londoniensis translatus est ad dictam ecclesiam Eboracensem vacantem ut supra (i.e. by the translation on the same day of Richard Fleming, under the style of archbishop of York, back to Lincoln). For Chichester Eubel refers to the bull in the Lateran Register, liber 122 (i.e. Reg. CCLXIV, below), f. 202, gives the date 1426, Feb. 27 (cf. Le Neve), and adds 'cf. Arm. XII. 121, p. 190.' See also above, n. 387.

To Nemeas Obeollayn, perpetual vicar of Drumcheelyd in the diocese of Elphin. Absolution etc. as below. His recent petition contained that although formerly, in his cause against Dermot (Dermissius) Ochoneil, clerk, of the diocese of Elphin, about the above vicarage, which Nemeas had accepted and had had provision made to him in virtue of certain letters of the present pope, which vicarage the said Dermot claimed and detained, he obtained from the executors of the said letters, Philip, Augustinian abbot of Cel[l]ani[g]ra in the diocese of Derry and Cornelius Machdouchreny, dean of Elphin, a joint definitive sentence by which the said vicarage was adjudged to him, and perpetual silence imposed on the said Dermot, and that he obtained induction; but that afterwards, dreading possible vexations by appeals etc., of the said Dermot, he promised by oath to pay him a certain sum of money yearly, on account of which and of a doubt whether the said executors could lawfully proceed jointly, he fears molestation in respect of the vicarage. The pope hereby absolves him from the said sworn promise, rehabilitates him, and grants that the said joint proceedings shall hold good, as if one executor alone had proceeded, or both had been able lawfully to proceed jointly. *Vite etc. (Ja. xxx. 8 MARTIN V (cont.).

DE REGULARIBUS.

Kal. Aug.
SS. Apostoli. Rome.
(f. 8d.)

To the abbot of [A]byndon in the diocese of Salisbury. Mandate as below. The recent petition of the guardian and brethren of the Friars Minors' house and of the community (universitas) and men of Suthampton in the diocese of Winchester, contained that although the said guardian and friars have by ancient custom buried all those who die at Suthampton and who choose the said house as their burial place, guaranteeing to the rector of the parish church of St. Mary, Suthampton, his canonical portion, nevertheless lately Henry Mersten, rector of the said church, asserted that the bodies ought to be presented there and mass for the dead celebrated before being borne to the said house, and that to end the dissension the parties submitted the question to the arbitration of the late Walter Medeford, dean of Wells, who gave a decision in favour of Henry. At the said petition, which added that if the said ancient custom be suppressed, it will be to the no small prejudice of the said guardian and friars, the pope orders the above abbot to summon the said rector and others concerned, and if he find the said decision unfair, to restore the said guardian and friars to the position in which they were before it was given, and furthermore, if he find that the said custom has been observed from of old, Henry's predecessors making no opposition, to grant licence to the said guardian and friars to have such bodies, in accordance with the said custom, conveyed straight (immediate) to the said house or its church, and buried there, saving the rector's right to the above canonical portion. Sacre religionis.

* Described on the back as Lib. 109. On a flyleaf, in a contemporary hand, is 'Ricoldus Rubricavit' and 'Secundus de Regularibus, Officio Tabellionatus et Plenaria remissione (the words Primus de Regularibus, which follow here, being cancelled) Anno Octauo.' On the bottom edge of the volume is the description, also contemporary, 'iius de Regularibus, Officio Tabellionatus et plenaria remissione anno viii.'

4 Kal. Oct.

(f. 38d.)

To the priors of St. John Baptist's de Kylykynii and St. Mary's, Inchmore (de Insula Magna), in the dioceses of Meath and Ardagh, and the dean of Ardagh. Mandate to collate and assign to Malachy Offergail, canon of the Augustinian priory of St. Mary, Saints Island (Insula Omnium Sanctorum), in the diocese of Ardagh, priest, the said priory, conventual and independent, value not exceeding 50 marks, void by the resignation of Donatus Mecongolan, and reserved under the pope's late general reservation of all conventual priories. Malachy is hereby specially dispensed on account of illegitimacy, as the son of a priest religious and an unmarried woman related in the double fourth degree of kindred. Religionis zelus, vite etc. (Ja. xxv. Quarto Kal. Februarii Anno Nono. de Cerretanis.)

5 Id. March.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 48.)

To the abbot and convent of the Augustinian monastery of Cirencester in the diocese of Worcester. 12 Kal. Sept.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 65.)

To Richard Trumpinton, brother of the Carthusian house of St. Saviour (sic) without the walls of London. Indult for him, who has the tonsure only, has lived for fourteen years under the regular habit of the said order in the said house, and made his profession therein, to be promoted to all, even priest's orders and minister therein, notwithstanding that before entering the said order he, when an unmarried clerk, married before the church after the custom of the country, and long cohabited with, a woman whom he knew to have been married before, who assured him that she had remained a virgo intacta, and who died before he entered religion. Exigit tue deuocionis.

10 Kal. Nov.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 75.)

To John Vaynepennyng, S.T.B., an Augustinian friar. Dispensation to hold during the pope's pleasure any parish church wont to be governed by secular clerks, notwithstanding the constitutions put forth by Otto and Ottobon in England, etc. Religionis zelus, litterarum etc.

6 Kal. Nov.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 83.)

appropriated to them by papal and ordinary authority, that Antonius de Sancto Quintino, priest, resigned the said church in order that the annexation might more quickly take effect, and that they have to pay him a yearly life pension of 100*l.* sterling; and adding that their monastery is weighed down by many and divers debts and burdens, and that its resources have suffered on account of floods etc.) to take for ten years for their own uses any one benefice in their gift, with or without cure, secular or regular, even if a priory, not conventual, or a parish church or its perpetual vicarage, and have it served by any monk of their monastery, to be chosen and removed by them, take and convert to their uses the fruits thereof, except the portion necessary for the support of such monk, etc., and during the said ten years resign such benefice, once only, and receive and hold another instead. Sincere deuotionis affectus. [See p. 374.]

9 Kal. June.
88. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 121.)

To the bishop of Chichester. Mandate as below. The late Robert, bishop of Chichester, informed that a number of the houses and buildings of the Augustinian priory of Michelham were in such ruin that, unaided, the prior and convent could not repair them; that very many of their arable and corn lands, meadows, pastures and other fertile places, whence came a great part of their sustenance, had been suddenly swallowed up by floods of the sea, in all probability for ever; that they were heavily burdened with debt, various exactions etc., so that their means were insufficient for their maintenance and for showing the hospitality rendered necessary by their position near the king's highway (prope viam regiam et communem), appropriated to them, with consent of the dean and chapter, the parish churches of Flecchyng and Alfriston, of the patronage of the prior and convent, providing for the institution of perpetual vicars, the indemnification of the episcopal mensa, the said dean and chapter and the archdeacon of Lewes, etc. At the recent petition of the prior and convent (containing that in virtue of the said appropriation, which was confirmed by Boniface IX, they obtained possession of Alfriston and, a few years later, of Flecchyng, in both cases, however, after Innocent VII's general annulment of those of Boniface IX's appropriations which had not yet taken effect) the pope orders the above bishop, if he find the facts to be as stated, to appropriate the said churches, value not exceeding 160 marks sterling, to the said priory, value not exceeding 1500 (mille et quin[gen]tarum), even if litigation be pending about them, vicar's portions etc., being reserved as before. Ad ea libenter intendimus. (Without the usual terminal subscription.) [See Cal. Lett. V, p. 247, and below, Reg. Lat. CCLIX, f. 95*d.*]

(f. 60.)

To John Waryn, rector of Cardynan (sic) in the diocese of Exeter, licentiate of canon law. Dispensation as below. Boniface IX dispensed him to hold for ten years with the perpetual vicarage of Leskyret in the said diocese any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, and to resign both, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleased, with the usual condition of exchanging or resigning. The pope hereby dispenses him (who has become a licentiate of canon law by examination, has obtained and holds by virtue of the said dispensation, having resigned the said vicarage, the parish churches of Cardynam and Parkham in the said diocese, and holds a canonry and prebend of Exeter, value altogether not exceeding 100 marks) to hold the said two churches together for life, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he wishes. Litterarum etc.

(f. 95d.)

To Master Peter Nardi, papal chaplain and auditor. Mandate as below. The pope recapitulates his recent mandate [above, p. 411, here without mention of the values] to the bishop of Chichester to appropriate to the prior and convent of Michelham the parish churches of Flechyng and Alfenston (also written Alfriston), already appropriated to them by bishop Robert and confirmed to them by Boniface IX, and the recent petition of the prior and convent, containing that a suit arose lately, before the date of the present pope's said letters, between them and John Toli, priest, of the diocese of Chichester, the prior and convent claiming the church of Flicchyng (sic), on its voidance by the death of John Crwcher, in virtue of the said appropriation, and Toli claiming that he had been presented by Thomas Stokil, layman, as patron, to Walter Euston, canon of Chichester, vicar-general in spirituals of bishop Thomas, and ought to be instituted; that the cause went before the said vicar, from whom and from the official of Canterbury Toli appealed on fictitious grounds to the apostolic see; that at length the pope at the instance of Toli, who made no mention of the said suit, committed the cause which Toli proposed to bring against the prior and convent to the above auditor, who has proceeded short of a conclusion; and that in the pope's said letters there is no specific mention of the said suit, on account of which the prior and convent fear lest the said letters may remain unexecuted. At the said petition, the pope orders the above auditor, if he find that the said layman has not the patronage of Flicchyng (sic), to proceed to the execution of the said letters as if full mention had been made therein of the said suit. Regimini uniuersalis ecclesie.

Lewis, bishop of Térouane (Morinen.), chancellor of France and lieutenant of John, duke of Bedford, regent of France, and by him placed in the government of the realm during his own absence, and the members of the great royal council at Paris have set forth to the pope that Thomas de Monteacuto, earl of Salisbury, when formerly on his way back to England from a visit to the Lord's Sepulchre, fell grievously ill and made a vow to revisit, if cured, the said sepulchre, without saying when; that afterwards, when restored to health and being in a certain battle [? Crevant, July, 1423], he confirmed and repeated the said vow; that although he made two attempts to fulfil his vow, nevertheless, being a vassal of Henry, king of England, he has been prevented by authority of the said king; and that when recently he made a third attempt to fulfil his said vows and, rejecting the persuasions of the said chancellor and other

To Nemeas Okaellay, canon of Killaloe. Grant as below. The pope lately ordered provision to be made to him of the canonry and prebend of Iniskahid in Killaloe, on their voidance by the resignation of William Ihanlly to bishop Donatus, whether they became void as stated, or because Roderick Macraith, now an Augustinian canon of SS. Peter and Paul's, Clar alias de Forgio, in the diocese of Killaloe, to whom provision had been made by papal authority [see above, p. 50], made his profession as a canon of the said monastery. At the recent petition of Nemeas, containing that although the said Roderick has now made the said profession, he had not done so at the time of the pope's said mandate of provision, and that he doubts whether the said canonry and prebend, of which he obtained possession in virtue of the said mandate, be not still void by the said profession, the pope hereby grants that his said letters and the proceedings taken under them shall hold good from the present date, even if the said canonry and prebend, value not exceeding 30 marks, be void by the said profession or in any other way. Vite etc. (*Pe. xxi. placed by the said prior and convent, who celebrates therein mass and other divine offices and administers to a number of the parishioners by old custom all ecclesiastical sacraments, but not baptism, marriage nor churching of women; and adding that in the said town the multitude and devotion of the said parishioners has increased so much that on Easter Day every year about 1,600 persons receive the communion (sacramento Eucaristie communicantur) in the said parish church, and in the said chapels of St. Nicholas and St. James about 1,400 and 900 respectively. The pope orders the above bishop, if he find the facts to be as stated, to grant to the parishioners that they may in the said chapels hear mass and other divine offices by the said chaplains and receive from them the said sacraments, and that the said chaplains may freely administer to them the same; saving the right of the parish church and of any other. Immonet nos suscepti cura.

(f. 185d.)

To Peter, bishop of Alet, residing in the Roman court. Mandate, at the recent petition of John Walsche, clerk, of the diocese of Cloyne, who has studied canon and civil law for several years at Oxford—containing that although he formerly, after having received papal dispensation, as the son of an Augustinian canon in priest's orders and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders, and hold a benefice even with cure, obtained by papal authority the canonry and prebend with cure of Balaghath in Cloyne, void by the resignation of Henry Norreys [cf. above, p. 51, f. 189], made before John Pellyn, clerk, of the diocese of Emly, notary public, and witnesses, and admitted by the pope, nevertheless after he had thus obtained them, Richard More, priest, of the diocese of Ardfert, alleging that they belonged to him under pretext of papal letters [see ibid., f. 240d], brought John before the executor of the said letters, and that the cause being submitted to arbitration it was arranged that in order to avoid litigation John should pay Richard a certain sum, and that Richard should give up all claim, both of which having been done, John held possession for more than a year without having himself ordained priest, and without dispensation—to absolve John from excommunication incurred, enjoining a salutary penance, and to rehabilitate him. John is to resign. Sedes apostolica, pia mater.

To the bishops of Alet and Cork, and the prior of St. Thomas the Martyr's, Buttevant (de Botonia), in the diocese of Cloyne. Mandate, recapitulating the preceding, to collate and assign to the above John (who lately [above, p. 51] received papal dispensation, on account of the above illegitimacy, to hold any mutually compatible benefices of any number and kind, with or without cure, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleased), upon his being absolved and resigning, the above canonry and prebend, which prebend is of the patronage of laymen, value not exceeding 18 marks, so long void, as above, that their collation has lapsed to the apostolic see, whether they become void as stated, or by the death of Gerald son of the late Maurice de Geraldinis, or in any other way; notwithstanding that John holds the rectory, without cure and value not exceeding 4 marks, of the parish church, whose cure is exercised by a perpetual vicar, of Kirg in the diocese of Cloyne. Vite etc. (Pe. xxii. Septimo Kal. Nouembris Anno Nono. de Casatiis.)

(f. 193d.)

To John Ixworth, archdeacon of Worcester, D.C.L., papal referendary. Indult to him (to whom the pope lately [above, p. 218] granted that he might take for life the fruits etc. of his benefices whilst residing in one of them) to do so for three years whilst residing in an honest place, and to appoint in his benefices one or more coadjutors of his race or household (de genere aut familia tua) without requiring licence of ordinaries or any others. Grata deuocionis obsequia.

SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 196.)

To Thomas Sowerby, rector of Merket Overton in the diocese of Lincoln, B.C.L. Dispensation to him (who formerly received papal dispensation, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, to be promoted etc. as above, f. 185d, after which he was so promoted and obtained the above church, value not exceeding 14 marks) to hold four other benefices compatible with one another and with the said church, with or without cure, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleases. Litterarum etc.

13 Kal. Sept.
Genazzano.
(f. 211d.)

Decree etc. as below. The pope lately [above, p. 243] made provision to Nicholas Tunock, dean of Aberdeen, M.A., of the said deanery, to which are annexed a canonry and prebend of the said church, and which, previously reserved, became void by the death at Rome whilst the pope had transferred the Roman court thence to Tivoli, of Patrick de Spal[d]ing, a member of the papal court and also a papal referendary, dispensing Nicholas to hold for three years therewith his parish church of Furby in the diocese of Aberdeen, with the usual condition of exchanging meanwhile, or of thereafter resigning Furby. Subsequently [above, p. 297], upon Nicholas setting forth to the pope that he doubted whether the deanery did not become void otherwise than as stated above, and was not still void, the pope granted to him (who was still holding the said church, and to whom the pope previously granted provision of a canonry of Dunkeld and another of Moray, with reservation of as many prebends) that the said first letters should hold good from the date of this last grant, even if the said deanery, a major elective dignity with cure, were still void in the way stated above, or by the death of Richard Militis on his way back from the Roman court within two days' journey therefrom, or otherwise. At Nicholas's recent petition, containing that some persons (asserting that the aforesaid letters are surreptitious and invalid because they did not mention that the said parish church is asserted to be of the patronage of laymen, and because they did not mention that a yearly pension of 20*l.* sterling had been assigned by the pope from the fruits etc. of the deanery, with Nicholas's consent, to Edward de Lawedie (sic), rector of Southack in the diocese of Glasgow, M.A., and also because Nicholas did not cause the last named letters to be expedited within the time appointed in the ordinances lately put forth by the present pope about the time of expediting new provisions [see Ottenthal, Regule Cancell. Apost., pp. 204 and 205, No. 86 of the Regule Martini I']) have impetrated the said deanery from the pope, and that he therefore fears litigation or other molestation, the pope—considering that the mention of the said patronage would not have prevented him from granting the said dispensation, and that there was no need, in accordance with the said constitution, to mention in the said later letters the grant of the said pension, inasmuch as it was specially mentioned in the earlier petition by which the pope made the provision of the deanery to Nicholas, and that Nicholas was not bound to cause the last named letters to be expedited within the said time—hereby decrees and declares that the aforesaid letters hold good from their respective dates, as if in the first letters the patronage of laymen, and in the later ones the said pension had been specially mentioned, and as if Nicholas had caused the last named letters to be expedited within the time appointed by the said ordinance; and decrees to have been and to be invalid and null, and hereby annuls, all impetrations etc. of the said deanery obtained by others to Nicholas's prejudice. Ad fut. rei mem. Romanus pontifex pacis et justicie. (Pe. .x.r.r.r. Id. Octobris Anno Nono. de Casatiis.) [See also above, pp. 262 and 404.]

(f. 10.)

To William, cardinal priest of St. Mark's. Mandate, as below. The recent petition of William Croyser, priest, of the diocese of St. Andrews, M.A., contained that formerly Benedict de Guidalottis, regent of the office of chamberlain, at the instigation of certain enemies by whom William was denounced to the said regent in respect of certain crimes falsely alleged by them to have been committed by him in prejudice of the papal camera, warned William (who had been sent at the time to the pope and the Roman court by certain princes of Scotland), under pain of excommunication, deprivation and a fine of 1,000 ducats, to assign to him a certain mandate or proctorial power, and the decree of a certain election celebrated in those parts, and certain other muniments, and forbade him to leave the Roman court until he restored a certain copy (transumptum) which he had detained; that, although the said William appealed to the apostolic see, he took oath to appear on the following day before the said regent or, if not, to appoint the said regent as his proctor for purpose of resigning his benefices to the pope; that, being bound by the said oath, he appeared on the said day; that, being at length absolved by the above cardinal by papal authority from the aforesaid, he left the Roman court in good faith, but that afterwards the said regent, perhaps in ignorance of the said absolution, resigned the said benefices to the pope, who is said to have inadvertently admitted the resignation. At the said petition (which added that before the above cardinal and Alfonsus, cardinal deacon of St. Eustace's, William sufficiently cleared himself of the charges against him) and the petitions on William's behalf of James, king of Scotland and Alexander, earl of Mar, the pope orders the above cardinal, if he find the facts to be as stated, to annul the said resignation and admission, and consequent provisions etc., and to restore William to the archdeaconry of Teviotdale in Glasgow, a non-major dignity with cure, the canonry and prebend of Dunkeld, and the parish churches of Kirkgonzan and Fredessow in the dioceses of Glasgow and St. Andrews, value altogether not exceeding 160*l.* sterling, and to his right therein, as before the said resignation. *Ad Romani pontificis providenciam. (f. 53d.)

To Robert Penven, rector of Goudon (sic) in the diocese of Glasgow, bachelor of canon law. Grant etc. as below. The pope, under date 5 Kal. Feb. anno 1 [1418], ordered provision to be made to him of a benefice with or without cure in the common or several gift of the Benedictine abbot and convent of the monastery of Calkou and the Benedictine prior of the monastery of Coldinham, wont to be governed by a prior, in the diocese of St. Andrews, executors being deputed, and at the same time dispensed him to hold for three years such benefice with cure together with the perpetual vicarage, which he was then holding, of Malkarsten in the said diocese. At his recent petition—containing that he afterwards resigned, simply, the said vicarage, and obtained the above church of Goudon, and that in the said diocese of St. Andrews there is no monastery of Coldinham of the said order, but only the monastery of Durham wont in like manner to be governed by a prior—the pope, lest the said grace and letters be of no avail to Robert, who is a priest, holds the said church of Goudon, of the patronage of laymen, and the perpetual chaplaincy founded by the late Roger de Aldton in the parish church of St. James, Roxbuich (sic), in the diocese of Glasgow, value not exceeding 20 and 12 marks of old sterlings respectively, restores him to the said grace and letters, even as regards such benefice with cure, and restores the said grace and letters themselves, from the date thereof, to the force which they had before collation of Goudon was made to him; and grants that he may, alike under the said as of the present letters, accept such benefice with cure, even belonging to the gift of the prior of the said monastery of Durham, and that the said executors may and shall make provision thereof to him, as if he had not obtained Goudon, and as if in the said letters 'Durham' had been written instead of 'Coldinham.' He is hereby dispensed to receive and to hold for three years such benefice with cure together with Goudon. Litterarum etc. (*Pe. xxvi. Septimo Id. To William Pelleson, archdeacon of Clyvelland in York, bachelor of canon law. Prolongation, as below. John XXIII dispensed him to hold for seven years with his parish church of Anderby in the diocese of Lincoln any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, and to resign both, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleased. Subsequently, on his setting forth to the present pope that having resigned Anderby he had obtained by collation of the ordinary, had held for some time, and was still holding together with the said archdeaconry, which is a non-major dignity with cure, the parish church of St. Denys, York, the pope [above, p. 142] prolonged by three years the said period of seven, which was about to expire. At his recent petition (containing that he thereafter resigned, simply, St. Denys's, and obtained the parish church of Kyrkeby Misteron [sic] in the diocese of York, and is holding it with the said archdeaconry, value not exceeding 50 and 80 marks respectively, and has to support great expense for the repair of their houses etc. and great hospitality on account of his residence at the church of York, even in respect of the reception of the poor and pilgrims who daily resort thither) the pope prolongs by other seven the said period of three years, which is about to expire. During the said seven years he may resign the said church and archdeaconry, simply or for exchange. Litterarum etc.

Further, if they find that the said bishop is absent from the city and diocese, they are, during his absence and during their inquiry, to commit the rule and administration of the said church, in spirituals and temporals, to some bishop or other fit person, until the pope has arrived at a decision. Credite nobis dispensacionis.

Confirmation, as below. The recent petition of Walter Honyngton (written Honynton in the bishop's letters mentioned below), perpetual vicar of St. Sepulchre's without Neugate in the suburbs of London, contained that the late Richard, bishop of London (considering that the said church had more than two thousand parishioners of both sexes, a long, wide and scattered parish, and that singlehanded neither the said Walter nor any other vicar could exercise the cure without the aid of a chaplain, that the oblations, tithes and other emoluments of the said church commonly amounted to 60*l.* a year of the money current in the realm, and that the vicarage had not been endowed with a sufficient portion), warned and required the Augustinian prior and convent of St. Bartholomew's in West Smythfeld' in the said suburbs, to which priory the said church is annexed, to assign to the said Walter and his successors an adequate portion, and that upon the prior and convent neglecting to do so, the bishop himself, as the result of a visitation, assigned (by his sealed letters, dated in his manor of Fulham, 1 Feb. 1422 (sic), after the computation of the English church, the 14th year of his translation, which letters the pope has caused to be examined in his chancery, and which are here exemplified), a portion of 20*l.* of the said money, to be paid on behalf of the said prior and convent by the parish clerk or whoever else receives and collects the said obligations etc. The said petition adding that Walter has received the said pension for four years, without opposition on the part of the said prior and convent, the pope hereby confirms the said bishop's letters. *Ad fut. rei mem. Confirmation etc. as below. The recent petition of Thomas, bishop of Durham, John Henege, Nicholas Motte, Richard Lombard', Richard Fryth, co-lords of the manor of Mamcestre in the diocese of Lichfield, and of Thomas la Warre, rector of the parish church of St. Mary, contained that at the request of the said bishop and other co-lords (considering that the said church, of which they were and are the patrons, has a wide and very populous parish, and that from its fruits etc., worth 250 marks sterling a year, several ministers could be maintained; that although a great cure of souls was attached to the said church it had rarely happened that its own rector resided there, the said cure being exercised by other priests), William, bishop of Lichfield, in honour of the said Virgin Mary and SS. Denis and George, martyrs, with consent of the dean of Lichfield and the prior of Coventry, of the chapters of those united churches, and of the archdeacon of Chester, erected the said church into a collegiate church, with a college consisting of a master and eight chaplains and other ministers, on condition that the master should be presented to the said bishop William and his successors, or during voidance of the see of Lichfield to the guardian of the spiritualities, and by them be instituted, and, on the resignation or death of the said Thomas la Warre, should exercise the cure of the said chaplains and ministers and of the parishioners of St. Mary's. Bishop William further granted faculty to the said bishop Thomas and to Thomas le (sic) Warre to make statutes, subject to bishop William or his successor's confirmation, and reserved the following yearly pensions: 40s. of English money for the episcopal mensa of Lichfield, 20s. for the dean and chapter of Lichfield, and 20s. for the said archdeacon. At the said petition the pope hereby confirms bishop William's letters of erection etc., which he has caused to be examined in his chancery, and grants faculty to bishop Thomas as often as he pleases to put forth new statutes and ordinances for the said collegiate church, and to correct, interpret, amend or abolish alike such new statutes and those already made. *Ad fut. rei mem. To the bishop of Killaloe. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Dermot Meicgyllaphadryg, canon of the Augustinian monastery of St. Mary, Ynisgad, in the diocese of Killaloe, contained that the pope formerly [above, p. 125] ordered provision to be made to Cornelius Yruogyn, canon of the Augustinian priory of St. Mary Magdalen, Grenoble, of the said monastery, as void by the death of abbot Thomas Ohymuyr; that although the said Cornelius is not of noble birth, and although the fruits etc. of Ynisgad do not exceed a net yearly value of 16 marks, Cornelius untruly expressed in the letters of the said provision that he was of noble birth, and that the said fruits etc. do not exceed a yearly value of 12 marks; and that, entering into unlawful compacts with Patrick Ohenne, sometime canon of Ynisgad, who was then wrongfully detaining possession of the monastery, as he has done for more than nine years and still does, Cornelius has not used the said letters. The pope therefore orders the above bishop to summon the said Patrick and Cornelius and others concerned, and if he find the facts to be as stated, to decree the said letters null, and in that event to make provision of Ynisgad, net value not exceeding 16 marks, as stated by Dermot above, to the said Dermot, who is a subdeacon, is by both parents of noble birth, intends to reform the said monastery, and lately received papal dispensation, as the son of a priest, a canon of the said order, and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure. The said bishop is to bless Dermot or cause him to be blessed by another catholic bishop, after which Dermot's oath of fealty is to be received, according to the form enclosed, and sent to the pope, as usual. Ex suscepte seruitutis.

At the recent petition of the said Malachy—containing that he obtained and holds the said rectory by virtue of the said mandate, but that he fears molestation on the ground that the said mandate may be deemed surreptitious because it did not mention that Geneas (rectius Eneas) Ocarbry, priest, had unlawfully for several years detained and was then detaining possession of the said rectory; and also on the ground that, in order to put a stop to a suit about the said rectory between himself and the said Geneas, he promised under oath to assign to him a certain quantity of the fruits etc. of the said rectory, and afterwards, in order to buy off like vexations, to pay to Magonius Ohanractaych, priest, of the said diocese, Geneas's accomplice, 20s. a year of the money current in those parts—the pope orders the above bishop to relax the said oath, absolve Malachy from excommunication etc. incurred, enjoining a salutary penance, and rehabilitate him, to grant to him that the said mandate shall hold good from the present date, notwithstanding the said omission, to decree that Malachy is not bound to observe the said oath and assignation of fruits and payment of money, and furthermore to dispense him to hold the said rectory, notwithstanding that his father holds the perpetual vicarage of the same church, provided that no scandal be caused thereby. Sedes apostolica, pia mater. (*Ja. viii. the ordinary, he was presented by the patron Edmund, earl of March, to Thomas Scurlag, prior of St. Peter's, [Newtown] by Trion (sic), in the said diocese, vicar-general in spirituals of bishop Edward, and instituted and inducted thereby; but that Thomas Donecan, clerk, of the same diocese, claiming the said church, made opposition and prevented Nicholas, as he still does, from holding peaceable possession, wherefore Nicholas appealed to the apostolic see, the cause being committed by the present pope to Master Henry Fleckel, at Nicholas's instance, and afterwards to Master Geminianus de Prato, papal chaplains and auditors, the latter of whom decreed by a definitive sentence that the said presentation etc. were canonical and ought to have taken and to take effect, and that the said church did and does lawfully belong to Nicholas, and adjudged it to him, imposing perpetual silence on Donecan, and condemning him in costs; that Donecan's appeal to the apostolic see from this sentence was committed by the pope to John, elect of Cadiz, then papal chaplain and auditor, who confirmed the said sentence, declared the appeal bad, and condemned Donecan in the additional costs; that Donecan's further appeal from the said John's decision was committed by the pope to Raynald, cardinal deacon of St. Vitus's in Macello, who confirmed the said decision and the original sentence, declaring Donecan's further appeal bad and condemning him in the costs; and that the said costs were subsequently assessed by the said two auditors and cardinal at 36, 25 and 18 gold florins of the camera respectively. At the petition of the said Nicholas, adding that he fears that whilst the suit has been pending others have intruded themselves or may do so in future, the pope orders the above three to execute the said sentence etc. and to do so, not only against Donecan, but against any such intruders. Exhibita nobis. (Ja. xxx. At the petition of the said Nemeas (containing that abbot Odo, proceeding to execution, made collation and provision to him and removed time, and that Thomas Sepinand alias Maleaclid, priest, of the said diocese of Kildare, despoiled him thereof and intruded himself, and still unduly detains possession. Seeing that the said mandate and collation and provision are liable to be held surreptitious because they do not mention that at the time of the date thereof the late Nicholas Fayt, priest, had for more than seven years detained possession without canonical title, and seeing that, as the said petition added, the said vicarage is said to have become and to be void otherwise than by the death of the said Richard, the pope at the petition of the said Maurus who is a priest, holds the said vicarage of Kylkadurchi, to whom provision has been lately made, as above, of the said vicarage of Carbury, and to whom the pope has recently [above, f. 176] ordered provision to be made of the rectory of Kyllcorbugi in the said diocese, value not exceeding 3, 30 and 6 marks respectively, dispensing him by the last named letters as above, ibid.) orders the above three to summon the said Thomas and others concerned, and to proceed to the execution of the said letters directed to them, as above, which and the consequences thereof are hereby made valid from the present date, as if they had mentioned the detention by the said Nicholas and the alleged voidance otherwise than by the death of the said Richard. *Vite etc. (Pe. To Magonius Odrobelaydh, canon of Raphoe. Mandate as below. The pope has this day ordered him to cause Edmund Ogallchubair, clerk, of Raphoe, to be admitted as a monk of the Cistercian abbey of St. Mary the Virgin, Assaroe (de Sameria), in the diocese of Raphoe. He hereby further orders him, after the said Edmund (who is by both parents of noble birth, is in his twenty-third year, and lately received papal dispensation, as the son of a deacon and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure) has been so admitted and has made his profession, to make provision to him of the said abbey, the value of whose abbatial mensa does not exceed 16 marks, void by the death of Goffredus, during whose life it was specially reserved by the pope, summoning and removing Cormac Oculinnan, monk of the said abbey, who without canonical institution has unduly detained possession for about two years; whether it became void as stated, or by the death of Senus Miccemilthaych alias Thady (Titius) [see above, p. 192], or in any other way. Edmund has hereby dispensation to hold it, and faculty to be blessed by any catholic bishop, who shall thereafter receive and send his oath of fealty as usual. Ex susceptis scruiitutis.

To the bishop of Aiacen,^o dwelling in the Roman court. Mandate as below. The recent petition of John Percy, subdean of Lincoln, bachelor of canon law, contained that one day he and three other English notables were assembled in a house in Rome (infra Urbem) for the purpose of settling a quarrel between two Englishmen and an Irishman, when they were assailed by three other Irishmen, whom they did not know, one of whom, a subdeacon, insultingly declared that he meant to avenge the arrest of a compatriot of his, and although warned to get out of the house, refused, rushed at John's servant and struck him with his fist. When, at the blow, the servant had begun to draw the knife which he was wearing at his side, John (who was then in priest's orders, and under a papal dispensation was holding together, as he still does, the subdeanery of Lincoln, which is a non-major dignity with cure, and the parish church of Querygtun in the diocese of Lincoln, and also the free chapel without cure of Blastun in the said diocese) fearing that his servant was in danger of death, came to his rescue and closed with the subdeacon (subdiaconum . . . ulnis complectens). Thereupon another Irishman, coming to the subdeacon's help, got John by the neck (collo dicti Johannis adherente) who, having the subdeacon in front and the said other Irishman behind him, saw no better way of saving himself than to wound the subdeacon on the shoulders (humeris), and to throw the other Irishman on the ground. So, without the least intention of killing the subdeacon, he wounded him on the shoulders with a small bread knife, whereupon the subdeacon and the other Irishman went away. On the fifth day after this the subdeacon died, for which John says that he is not otherwise guilty. The pope therefore orders the above bishop to absolve John from excommunication incurred, enjoining a salutary penance, rehabilitate him, and dispense him to minister in all holy orders as before, and to receive any benefices, of any number and kind, with or without cure, compatible with one another and with the said subdeanery and church, and to hold together such benefices and the said chapel, value not exceeding 3s. 4d. of English money, and, for as long as the aforesaid dispensation holds good, the said subdeanery and church, value not exceeding 50 and 8 marks sterling respectively. Sedes apostolica, pia mater.

[*Cf. Raine. To the official of Clonfert. Mandate as below. Lately, on learning that the rectory of Athnaryg in the diocese of Tuam, of the patronage of laymen, was so long void by the death of Milerus de Bremycheam that its collation had lapsed to the apostolic see, the pope [above, p. 397] ordered the bishop of Kilmacduagh to summon William de Bremycheam (also written Bremicheam), priest, of the said diocese (who had unduly detained possession for more than four years, although under disability because against 'Execrabilis' he had held certain incompatible benefices without dispensation, even before obtaining the said rectory), and if he found that the rectory was void in the way stated or in any other way, to collate and assign it to William Ocorcrayn, canon of Kilmacduagh, who fearing Bremycheam's power had no hope of obtaining justice in the city and diocese of Tuam. At Ocorcrayn's petition (containing that although John, bishop of Kilmacduagh, proceeded, short of a conclusion, he without reasonable cause proceeded no further, and remitted the cause to the examination of the apostolic see) the pope orders the above official to resume the cause at the stage at which the said bishop left it, and to execute the pope's said mandate. Dudum per nos accepto.

contained that he was formerly presented, by one layman, and Robert Brown, [now] rector of Westerkele in the said diocese, by another layman, to Westerkele, the patronage of which belongs in turn to the said laymen and to the Benedictine abbot of Crowland, that the presentation of John was not admitted by bishop Richard, and that Robert was instituted and obtained possession; that to appease the dissension which the said presentations threatened to arouse between the said laymen, and to compensate John for the labour and expense which he had incurred in the prosecution of the presentation which had been made in his favour, Robert consented, with the consent of the said laymen, but not of the said abbot, that John should receive a life pension of 10*l.* sterling from the fruits etc. of Westerkele. SS. Apostoli. Rome.

To the bishops of Alet and Frigento, and the official of Winchester. Mandate as below. The petition of Edmund Aldefordi, rector of Stoke in the diocese of Winchester, contained that he formerly obtained, by authority of the ordinary, the said church on its voidance by the resignation of Stephen Overton made to bishop Henry, and had held peaceable possession for some time when John Powle, rector of Aldenbi in the diocese of Lincoln, claiming Stoke, dispossessed him and himself still detains possession, wherefore Edmund appealed to the apostolic see; that at Edmund's instance the pope committed the appeal etc. to Master Peter Nardi, papal chaplain and auditor, who condemned the said disposssession, removed John and restored Edmund to possession, imposing perpetual silence on John and condemning him in fruits and costs, which latter he subsequently assessed at 21 gold florins of the camera. The said petition adding that Edmund fears that John will not obey the present letters and the above processes, the pope orders the above three to proceed to execute them, restoring Edmund and removing John, causing satisfaction to be made to Edmund in respect of the said fruits and costs, invoking the aid of the secular arm etc. Exhibita nobis.

To the bishop of Alet and the archdeacon and the chancellor of Limerick. Mandate to collate and assign to Cornelius Odygi, priest, of the diocese of Killaloe, the still void perpetual vicarage of Kyllmealayn in the diocese of Limerick, value not exceeding 6 marks; the said Cornelius doubting whether the collation and provision which he received from bishop Cornelius, on voidance by resignation to the said bishop of John Hwlchay, hold good. The collation is to be made whether the vicarage became void as stated, or by the death of Philip Mecheachayn, or in any other way. *Vite etc. (Ja. xviii. Tercio Non. woman, (i) to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure, (ii) to hold two other mutually compatible benefices, after which dispensation he obtained by collation of the ordinary the canonry and prebend of Croch in Limerick, value not exceeding 20 marks), the still void perpetual vicarage of Croch, of the patronage of laymen, value not exceeding 8 marks, to which on its voidance by the resignation of Jordan Pursel made to bishop Cornelius, he was presented by James, earl of Desmond (comitem Decemonie), and instituted by the said bishop. He doubts whether the said presentation and institution hold good, because some assert that the vicarage became void, not as above, but by the death of Thomas Russel. *Dignum etc. (Pe. xxi. To the bishop of Alet, and the chancellor and the treasurer of Limerick. Mandate to collate and assign to James Oleayn, priest, of the diocese of Killaloe, the still void perpetual vicarage of Inyskefryny in the diocese of Limerick, value not exceeding 6 marks, to which, on its voidance by the resignation of Edmund Micadam to bishop Cornelius, he (who had received papal dispensation, as the son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, to be promoted, etc. as above, f. 21d) was presented by John Kyndton, rector of Ballingarry (de Villa orti) in the diocese of Limerick, specially empowered by the ancient patron, William,* Augustinian abbot of Kynysan in the diocese of Bath, and was instituted by the said bishop. He doubts whether the said presentation and institution hold good. The collation is to be made whether the vicarage became void as stated, or because Gillabertus Ykatyl held it for more than a year without being ordained priest, or in any other way. *Vite etc. (Pe. xxi. 10 Kal. July.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 87.)

To the bishops of Alet and Kilmore, and the official of Meath. Mandate as below. At a former petition of John Offyne, rector of St. Lonan's, Killebbellach (sic), in the diocese of Meath (setting forth that in his cause, long ventilated in the papal palace, against Hugh Trache, priest, of the diocese of Dublin, about the said church, provision of which had been made to him by papal authority, and of which Trache had unduly taken possession, he had won a definitive sentence by which the church was adjudged to him and perpetual silence imposed on Trache, and that he had impetrated letters of execution addressed by the pope to certain judges, but that he feared lest others might intrude themselves), the pope ordered the said judges to execute the said letters against such other intruders. At his recent petition (containing that after Trache had resigned the said church, and before the said execution was made, John Nuugent, priest, of the diocese of Meath, intruded himself and still detains possession, that he has remained excommunicate for more than a year, and has caused Offyne to be wounded, captured and imprisoned and plundered of divers muniments, in contempt of the apostolic see) the pope orders the above three to proceed to the further execution of the said letters and sentence, invoking the aid of the secular arm, and to publicly pronounce Nuugent excommunicate. *Exhibita nobis. 6 Id. Feb.

SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 130.)

To the bishop of Alet, and the archdeacon and John Joy, canon, of Tuam. Mandate as below. The recent petition of David Valentis, priest, of the diocese of Tuam, contained that on the voidance of the rectory of Lochmeassca in the said diocese, of the patronage of laymen, by Cornelius Macheagayn entering and making his profession as a canon of the Augustinian monastery of Holy Trinity, Ballintober (de Fonte Sancti Patricii), in the said diocese [see above, p. 275], he was presented to archbishop John by Nicholas Scoundund (sic), Augustinian prior of the church of Dublin, asserting himself to have been empowered by the patron, Edmund earl of March, then absent, and was instituted by John de Burgo, archdeacon of Tuam, vicar-general in spirituals in absence of the said archbishop from his city and diocese; that in virtue of the said presentation and institution he obtained possession, taking the fruits; and that subsequently the said earl, on his return home, presented him again, after the lawful time, and that he continued, as he still does, to take the fruits, but now doubts whether the said presentation and institution hold good. The pope therefore orders the above three to collate and assign to him the said rectory, with cure, value not exceeding 8 marks, howsoever void, notwithstanding that he has lately ordered provision to be made to him of a benefice with or without cure in the common or several gift of the archbishop and the chapter of Tuam which, upon his obtaining the said rectory, shall be null as far as regards a benefice with cure only. Vite etc. (Pe. xx. Quintodecimo Kal. Aprilis Anno Decimo. de Casatiis.)

5 Id. May.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 247.)

To Cornelius Ogriffa, perpetual vicar of Bunrathy in the diocese of Killaloe. Grant as below. The pope lately [above, pp. 236, 237] ordered certain judges (not here named) to collate and assign to him the perpetual vicarage of Kyllmaellychry in the diocese of Killaloe, as being void because the late Matthew Macinnercheny held it for more than a year without being ordained priest and without dispensation, and dispensed Cornelius who, the son of a married man and an unmarried woman, had been promoted to the order of acolyte and to other minor orders, to minister therein and be promoted to all holy orders, and in the event of his obtaining the said vicarage, to resign it, simply or for exchange. At his recent petition—containing that some assert that the said vicarage, which he obtained by a collation made in virtue of the said letters, was at the date thereof void not as stated but otherwise, and was then and still is void, and that in consequence he, to whom the pope subsequently [above, p. 354] ordered provision to be made of the perpetual vicarage of Bunrathy, dispensing him to hold it and that of Kyllmaellichry together for life, fears molestation in respect of Kyllmaellichry — the pope grants to him, who is a priest, and holds the said vicarages, value together not exceeding 8 marks, that the said collation and its consequences shall hold good from the date of these presents, even if the said vicarage of Kyllmaellichry became void because the late David Oheny or Thomas Mackayla or John Oroddayn or Thady Oconnuyb held it for more than a year without being ordained priest, or became void in any other way. Vite etc. (Pe. Gratis pro deo. Quarto-decimo Kal. Augusti Anno Decimo. de Casatiis.)

SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 286.)

To the bishops of Alet and Dunblane, and the abbot of St. Thomas the Martyr's, Abirbrothok, in the diocese of St. Andrews. Mandate as below. The petition of John Boumaker, archdeacon of Teviotdale in Glasgow, contained that provision was formerly by papal authority ordered to be made to him of the said archdeaconry, void by the death of James Watson, but that William Croyser, clerk, of the diocese of Dunkeld, claimed it, and still prevents the said mandate from taking effect, and is in possession; that the cause, the said parties being then sufficiently present in the Roman court, was committed by the pope to Master John de Opiczis at Boumaker's instance, and then to Master John Walling, papal chaplains and auditors, the latter of whom gave a definitive sentence in favour of Boumaker, adjudging the archdeaconry to him, and removing Croyser, imposing perpetual silence on him and condemning him in the costs, which he subsequently assessed at 32 gold florins of the camera. The said petition adding that Boumaker fears that while the suit has been pending, others have intruded themselves or may do so, and that Croyser may refuse to obey the said sentence, the pope orders the above three to execute the preceding, inducting Boumaker and removing Croyser, etc. and to make execution against such intruders as if the said sentence had been delivered against them, invoking, if necessary, the aid of the secular arm. *Exhibita nobis. Mandate to collate and assign to Henry Burnham, clerk, of the diocese of Norwich, who is by both parents of noble race, the archdeaconry of Lismore, a non-major dignity with cure, value not exceeding 10 marks, which he formerly obtained by collation and provision of the late John, bishop of Lismore, by his ordinary authority, as being void by the death of John Reve; it being asserted that it became void, not as stated, but by the promotion [above, p. 477] of Richard, bishop of Lismore, to that see and by his consecration, which took place by the pope's order at the apostolic see [see above, p. 473]; notwithstanding that the pope has lately ordered provision to be made to him of the rectory, called the plebania, of Dumgarvan in the diocese of Lismore, value not exceeding 40 marks, and dispensed him to hold it for life with the said archdeaconry, which he asserted that he was then holding, and to resign both, simply or for exchange. *Nobilitas generis, rite etc. (Pe. xii. To the prior of Wallyngford in the diocese of Salisbury. Mandate as below. The recent petition of the Benedictine abbot and convent of Radynghe set forth that although they have been wont to dilute their drink and prepare their food (potum et cibaria sua temperare et condere) with the water of the river called 'Carenterbrock' which flows about (circa) and belongs to their monastery, nevertheless some sons of iniquity who live in the said town, although able to use other waters and rivers which flow in the town, maliciously and in opprobrium of the abbot and convent, pollute the said river to such an extent that at times the abbot and convent shrink from preparing their food and [diluting their] drink with it, and are often rendered indisposed to exercise divine offices. At their petition, praying the pope to help them in the matter with fatherly diligence, he orders the above abbot to warn all persons of either sex in the said town, and forbid them to throw filth into the said river, or otherwise stir it up or pollute it, to excommunicate those who disobey, and cause the sentence to be solemnly published. Decet apostolicam sedem.

7 Kal. Aug.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 44.)

To the bishop of Alet, and the dean and archdeacon of Emly. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Maurice Ocongalygh, priest, of the diocese of Limerick, contained that on the voidance of the perpetual vicarage of Kyldyna in the said diocese by the death of Walter de Walle, the late John de Geraldinis, archdeacon of Limerick, the collation and provision belonging by ancient custom to the archdeacon of Limerick, made collation and provision by his ordinary authority to the said Maurice, who had received papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure; that subsequently (after Maurice had, in virtue of letters of the present pope [above, p. 167] ordering provision to be made to him of a benefice with or without cure, even if a canonry and prebend in a cathedral church, in the common or several gift of the bishops and the deans and chapters etc. of Killaloe and Limerick, and dispensing him to hold such benefice, obtained the canonry and prebend of Kyldy in Limerick) on the voidance of the prebend of St. Munchin (Sancti Monchini) in the same church of Limerick by the death of Philip Ohanly, bishop Cornelius made collation and provision by his ordinary authority to Maurice, although not sufficiently dispensed for the purpose on account of the said defect; and that in virtue of the said collations and provisions he obtained possession of the said vicarage and prebend of St. Munchin, receiving, however, no fruits from the latter. Seeing that the collation and provision of the said prebend is therefore invalid, and seeing that, as the said petition added, Maurice doubts the validity of the collation and provision of the said vicarage, the pope orders the above three to collate and assign to him the said prebend of St. Munchin, value with the said canonry not exceeding 12 marks, and the said vicarage, value not exceeding 4 marks, whether they became void as stated, or because the vicarage became void because the said Walter held it for more than a year without being ordained priest, or whether they became void in any other way. He is hereby dispensed to hold the said prebend of St. Munchin and the said vicarage, and to resign them, simply or for exchange, as often as he pleases, and hold instead two compatible benefices. Vite etc. (Ja. xxxv. Quinto Id. Augusti Anno Decimo. de Cerretanis.)

SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(f. 70.)

To the abbot of Balmurenach in the diocese of St. Andrews. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Andrew de Crumby, layman, of the diocese of St. Andrews, contained that upon the spontaneous confession of the late John Blich, layman, before the officers of the town of Hadingtony, where he was then living, that he owed a certain sum of money to the said Andrew, certain goods of John to the value of the said sum were by the said officers assigned (deliberata) to Andrew; that Thomas de Bening, layman, of the said diocese, pretending that the said John, who had then died, was indebted to him at the time of his death in a certain other quantity of money, and that Andrew was bound to pay it from the said goods, brought him before John, [now] bishop of Glasgow, then official of St. Andrews, who, without observing legal procedure, gave a definitive sentence against Andrew. At the said petition, adding that the nullity of the sentence can be made manifest from the acts of the cause, and praying the pope to commit the cause of nullity to some person in those parts, the pope orders the above abbot to summon those concerned, and decide what is just without appeal, enforcing his decision by ecclesiastical censure. Exhibita nobis.

7 Id. Sept. To Michael Ouchtre, dean of Dunblane, bachelor of canon
SS. Apostoli, Rome. law. Dispensation as below. Lately the pope dispensed him,
(f. 57.) after granting him [above, p. 406] provision of the perpetual vicarage of Tibermore in the diocese of Dunkeld, to hold for three years with the deanery of Dunblane, which is a major dignity with cure, the said vicarage or any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible. At his recent petition, containing that the said period of three years is about to end, the pope dispenses him—who is of royal race, is chief (major) almoner of James, king of Scots, holds still the said deanery and the parish church of Lilliscleffe in the diocese of Glasgow, value together not exceeding 40*l.* of old sterlings, and the canonry and prebend of Inchemagranach in Dunkeld, value not exceeding 10*l.* of old sterlings, and lately received papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, (i) to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even if it had cure or were a canonry and prebend of a cathedral church, (ii) to hold any

11 MARTIN V.

DE BENEFICIIS VACANTIBUS.

9 Kal. Nov.
SS. Apostoli, Rome.
(t. 7.)

To Solomon Odubeanaych, rector of St. Eugenius's, Ardsracha, in the diocese of Derry. Grant as below. The pope lately [above, p. 267] ordered provision to be made to him (who had previously received papal dispensation, as the son of a priest and an unmarried woman, to be promoted to all, even holy orders and hold a benefice even with cure) of the above rectory, on its voidance by the death of Ysag Oculean. His recent petition contained that Cornelius Ochaemagayd, priest, of the said diocese, had before the pope's said mandate of provision unlawfully detained the said rectory for more than six years, and was still doing so; that Solomon, in his cause against Cornelius before two of the executors of the said mandate, gained a definitive sentence in his favour, and obtained possession of the rectory; and that he fears lest, inasmuch as the said mandate did not mention that Cornelius was detaining the rectory, he may suffer molestation. The pope therefore grants to Solomon (to whom he recently ordered provision to be made of the perpetual rectory (sic) of the parish church of Chepach in the said diocese, value not exceeding 8 [cf. p. 237] marks, dispensing him on account of the said defect to receive it, and to hold with it for life the above rectory of St. Eugenius's) that the said mandate of provision and the provision made to him in virtue thereof shall hold good from the date of these presents, notwithstanding the said omission. Vite etc. (Ri. xvi. Gratis pro deo in bulla et Registro de mandato domini nostri pape. Quinto Idus Nouembris Anno Undecimo. coldus.)

[DE BENEFICIIS VACANTIBUS.]

called the rectory of Dacorand and Mota in the diocese of Achonry, value not exceeding 25 marks, which takes its name from no church, and is of the patronage of laymen, and which has been so long void by the death of Odo Oconchubair that its collation has lapsed to the apostolic see; although Donald Macdonnchaid, priest, of the diocese of Achonry, who is to be summoned [and removed], has detained possession for more than six years, under pretext of papal letters [see Cal. Lett. VI, p. 254] which contain no mention of the fact that the said benefice is of the patronage of laymen. Vite etc. (Unfinished and cancelled with strokes, without note.)

(f. 225.)

Exemplification, omitting subscriptions etc., at the petition of William, bishop of Carlisle, of the letters Domus domini decora, which are beginning to be consumed with age, of Honorius III addressed to Ugo, bishop of Carlisle, and his successors, and dated at the Lateran per manum Magistri Guidonis capellani nostri, 6 Non. May, Indiction 12, in the year of the Incarnation 1223, anno 7. Pope Honorius, at bishop Ugo's prayer, and following in the footsteps of popes Innocent and Adrian, (i) confirms to the said bishop and his successors the bishopric of Carlisle and the diocese (Karleonen. episcopatum et parochiam), as the late Turstinus, archbishop of York, and the chapter of his church, with counsel of the late Henry, king of the English, defined it; (ii) ordains that in the city of Carlisle (Karleolen.), called of old Lugubalia, the episcopal see shall by perpetual right be in the church of St. Mary; (iii) adds that alike in holding synods, and in chapters, judgements and other ecclesiastical institutions, the same ecclesiastical customs shall be observed as prevail in other bishoprics of England in which is the regular observance; (iv) confirms to bishop Ugo and his successors, and through them to the church of Carlisle, the prebend which the said archbishop Turstinus granted to the church of Carlisle in the church of St. Peter, York; (v) confirms to bishop Ugo and his successors all present and future possessions and goods canonically held by the said church, with explicit mention of the church of Meleburn, and its lands, tithes, chapels and all its other appurtenances, the land of Barou upon Trent, 5*s.* daily by gift of the aforesaid king Henry, all lands, houses or other things in the said city or without which the said bishop Ugo possesses or shall in future be offered to him by kings of England or other faithful; (vi) confirms the ordinance of the possessions and rents of the church of Carlisle made by G[uala], cardinal priest of St. Martin's, then papal legate, and the divisions thereof made, with assent of the parties and accepted by both parties, and formerly confirmed by the apostolic see, between bishop Ugo and the prior and convent of Carlisle, by the abbot of Holmcoltran and the prior of Haugusteldesham by authority

Pope Honorius adds that on the death of bishop Ugo, no one shall be appointed to the see surreptitiously or by violence, but he whom the brethren of the said church by common consent, or the sounder part of the brethren, shall elect, and his letter ends with the usual clauses: Si qua igitur . . . Cunctis autem . . . Amen. Datum . . . [The present exemplification, which begins Ad fut. rei mem. Ex apostolice sedis providencia, not only contains a number of slight verbal differences from the text of the letter of Honorius as registered in Reg. Vat. XII, ff. 39d.—40d., but also gives in full certain clauses which are there abbreviated, and is therefore presumably taken, not from the copy in that register, but from the original. See Cal. Lett. I. p. 91, and Pressutti, Regesta Honorii Papæ III, Vol. II, p. 181, No. 4333.]

John XXIII dispensed him to hold for ten years with his vicarage of Croprydi any other benefice with cure or otherwise incompatible, even if it were of the patronage of laymen, or were a parish church etc., and to resign both, as often as he pleased, simply or for exchange [Cal. Lett. VI, p. 306]. The present pope, at his petition (containing that he had successively held with the said vicarage of Croptry, and resigned, in virtue of the said dispensation, the parish church of Thernyngh, that of Helmyng[h]am, in the diocese of Norwich, and the archdeaconry of Stafford, and was then holding with the vicarage of Croptry, likewise in virtue of the said dispensation, the treasurership of Lichfield, a non-major dignity with cure, to which are annexed the canonry and prebend of Sallods (sic) in Lichfield, and that the end of the said ten years was at hand) prolonged the said ten years by five more [above, p. 199]. At the recent petition of Thomas—who is also M.A., has studied theology for ten years at Oxford, and holds canonries and prebends in Knosall' and St. John Baptist's in Stoke, in the dioceses of Lincoln (rectius Lichfield) and Norwich, value with the said treasurership and its annexed canonry and prebend and the said vicarage of Croptry, not exceeding 300 marks—containing that the end of the said period of five years is also at hand, the pope hereby prolongs it by other two. Litterarum etc.

(f. 136.)

To Philip Macinflud, canon of Tuam. Mandate as below. The recent petition of Raymond (Remundus) Bremycheam, provost of Tuam, contained that formerly, after the exchange of divers words of contumely between him and Nymeas Oruori, clerk, of the diocese of Tuam, he laid violent hands on Nymeas, but short of the effusion of blood, and that, betaking himself in person to the apostolic see, from the sentence of excommunication which he had incurred he obtained absolution from Master Panthaleo de Breda, doctor of canon law, papal chaplain, auditor of causes of the papal camera, and, relying on the said absolution, obtained, by authority of papal letters, with papal dispensation in regard to holding them together in perpetuity [see above, pp. 160, 161], collation of the provostship of Tuam, a non-major non-elective dignity without cure, then void in a certain way, and the rectory of Dunmor in the said diocese, then void by the death of James Hachyt, William Bremicheam, priest, of the said diocese, being removed from his unlawful possession of the said rectory; that the said William promised by oath not to molest Raymond in respect of the said rectory, but that he subsequently, falsely asserting that Raymond was, at the times of the impetration made by him and of the collation made to him of the said rectory, and still remained, under the said sentence of excommunication, claimed the rectory and Raymond's removal, and brought him before Cornelius, abbot of Knockmoy (Collis victorie) in the said diocese (sub-commissioner appointed by the above Nymeas, the judge specially deputed in the case by the apostolic see), who gave an unjust sentence in favour of William and against Raymond; that subsequently Raymond and William, in order to bring the suit to a more rapid conclusion, and to save trouble and expense, chose as judges and arbitrators Magonius Othedura, an Augustinian friar, John Ranny, a Friar Minor, and others, and promised under oath and a money penalty to abide by their judgement; that before the said judges William repeated the above argument of the invalidity of the said impetration and collation, to which Raymond replied that at the dates thereof he had been absolved, producing the letters of absolution of the said Panthaleo with his seal attached as auditor of the said court; but that the said judges, asserting that, whereas lawful proof was forthcoming of the said sentence, there was a doubt as to the power of the said auditor to grant such absolution, and that the said seal was unknown to them, gave a definitive and unjust sentence against Raymond. At the said petition of Raymond, adding that on account of his said oath he is prevented from prosecuting his right to the rectory, the pope orders the above canon to summon the said William and others concerned, and if the facts be as stated, to declare that the said auditor's absolution was and is lawful, to relax Raymond's said oath and the money penalty, to restore him to the position in which he was theretofore, and to hear and decide the cause without appeal. Humilibus supplicum rotis.

To the treasurer of Lincoln. Mandate as below. The recent petition of the perpetual chaplains in the church of St. Mary, Sowthwel, in the diocese of York, living therein in common, contained that each and all of them, on account of their perpetual benefices called chantries in the said church, are deemed to be bound, in accordance with the original institutions and endowments thereof, to celebrate mass daily and be present at all the canonical hours by night and day, and that the custom has been further introduced and observed, subsequent to the said institutions and endowments, that they do not perform or accept annual offices and services (obsequia) in the said church, so that the fruits etc. of the said benefices being very slight, they lack the means of maintenance and supporting their burdens. At the said petition (which added that if it were specially granted to them to be able to accept and perform the said offices and services, a number of the faithful would from time to time give them obventions and emoluments for such performance), the pope orders the above treasurer, if he find that the said means are insufficient for the maintenance of the said chaplains, to grant that they may perform the said offices and services, and receive such obventions and emoluments. Pro singularum.
